QUIETUDE, FORSOOTH

The Wheels of Government Awaiting Cleveland's Touch.

SHERMAN HAS A CAUSTIC SAY

Kicking Because Carlisle Has Overleaped All Precedent.

SPEAKER REED HAS PLENTY OF WORK

He Is Wrestling with the Naming of His Committees-What He May Do.

Washington, December 13 .- (Special.)-Senator Sherman is preparing to answer the financial part of the president's mes sage. He will not speak until after he has had an opportunity of digesting the report of the secretary of the treasury, which has not yet been sent to congress, and this may compel the Ohio senator to postpone his reply until after the holidays.

Not only Mr. Sherman, but other members of the finance committee have expressed their surprise and discontent at the delay in receiving this report.

This delay is something entirely unusual," said Mr. Sherman. "The law requires the report of the secretary of the treasury to be sent in at the opening of congress and we are still without it."

"When a member of the group suggested to Mr. Sherman that possibly Mr. Carlisle did not feel like releasing his report without having first submitted it to the president, Mr. Sherman said:

"Very likely that is true. I can hardly think that Mr. Carlisle will give the president's views that cordial indorsement that Mr. Cleveland would doubtless like." Wrestling with Work.

Speaker Reed did not appear at the capitol today. He remained at his hotel to work on the formation of the committees. A number of members see no necessity for remaining in Washington longer and several of them, including Mr. Hopkins. ois, will return to their homes this

The impression continues to grow strong er daily that Mr. Dingley, of Maine, will be appointed chairman of the ways and means committee instead of Mr. Payne, of York, who ten days ago was thought to be booked for the leadership of the majority on the floor.

This week Mr. Dingley has been recognized by the speaker to make the motions which naturally devolve upon the floor leader and this, with other circumstances, is accepted as almost conclusive evidence that he is to be chairman of the committee on

What Others May Receive.

Mr. Cannon, however, may be placed on the committee on rules if not at the head of the appropriations committee, which is considered a very desirable place, and thus be provided for in this way. With Grosve-nor, of Ohio, who, it is said, has retired from the contest for chairman of the rivers and harbors committee, out of the way this important chairmanship is supposed to lie between Mr. Herman, of Oregon and Mr. Hooker, of New York.

The Pacific coast members are anxious that Mr. Herman should have it, although

Mr. Hooker is working hard for it What Appear To Be Certainties.

The chairmanships of the following committees seem to be almost certain: Foreign affairs, Hitt, of Illinois; Judic-iary, W. A. Stone, of Pennsylvania; Pacific railroads, Powers, of Vermont; banking and currency, Walker, of Massachusetts; interstate commerce, Hepburn, of Iowa; ctions (which will probably be divided). Daniels, of New York, and neval affairs, Boutell, of Maine.

Speaker Tom Reed hurraled with mighty flourish before congress met about how he would break the record in appointing his committees the first week after congress met. Yet one week has gone, the second is nearly at an end and the committees are still in the seclusion of the speak er's room. Reed has not broken the rec

And he will not. He will not make his committees public until just before the holidays, as all other speakers have done He will probably announce them on Sat urday of next week, the day on which congress will adjourn for the holidays.

Reed has had any amount of trouble in making up his committees. All of the 224 republicans in the house want to be on one of the three leading committees-ways means, appropriations or coinage—and a score or more want the respective chair-manships of these. In trying to please all Reed is having trouble. But for the fact that he is a presidential candidate it would be no trouble. He would put the most coment men in the best places. But this time he is endeavoring to provide best for those who can have the most influence in his behalf with delegates to the convention to be held in St. Louis on June 16th. To do this without driving others against him is task he is struggling with. That he will make enemies he knows. Therefore he will announce his committees ust before the holiday adjournment in order that the indignant ones may have we weeks in which to cool off before they have opportunity to officially protest

Senator Bacon's Bill.

The bill introduced by Senator Bacon looking to the construction of a canal from the Tennessee to the Savannah river has attracted much attention as a measure of national importance from the fact that the navigable waters of the rivers in the Mississiphi valley reach between the the Mississippi valley reach between ni-teen and twenty great states, the products and commerce of which are immense. The and commerce of which are immense. The ticble one by which these rivers can all be furnished with a water outlet to the Atlantic ocean.

Replying to an inquiry made of him to day. Senator Bacon said that the present object of his bill was simply to have the government make the surveys and esti-mates by which the feasibility and proba-ble cost of the work could be definitely ascertained. If shown to be feasible and within any reasonable cost, the senator is entirely confident that the vast interests which will be advanced thereby will sooner or later insure its construction by the government. He says he naturally recognize that a work of this magnitude cannot be rushed through, but that, on the contrary, the first efforts in such undertakings are seldom attended with more than partial success. The public mind has, by continued efforts in that behalf, to be educated up to the support of enterprises of such proportions.

It is impossible to say now where the canal, if constructed, will intersect the Savannah river. That will depend upon the conclusion of the engineers as to which is the best point for the purpose in view.

Joe Wheeler's Bust.

A southern congressman recently at the exposition was talking about General Joe Wheeler's bust now on exhibit there.

"It may not be generally known," said he, "that the sculptor, William Rudolph O'Donovan, was a gallant confederate soldier under General Lee from the begin ning to the close of the war. During the ast ten years he has modeled a number of the finest works of art in America, including the equestrian statues of Lincoln and Grant now being erected at the Brook-

"Lately he modeled that bust of General Joe Wheeler, which was cast by the art founder, Maurice J. Power, of New York. "One day while I was there a guide had some visitors in charge, and coming to this bust he said, in the confident tone which these men adopt: This is the bust of Maurice J. Power, the founder of New York.' The visitors recognized that the bust had artistic merit, but they ventured to express doubts as to the historic acto express doubts as to the historic ac-curacy of the guide's assertion. They were New Yorkers, and never had heard that a Mr. Power founded the city, and they wondered what sculptor was making such fine busts in New York nearly 300 years Surprised that his statement should be called into question, the guide hastened around behind the bust, and with an air of triumph read to them the following: 'Maurice J. Power, founder, New

"They endeavored to explain to him that Mr. Maurice J. Power was the owner and manager of the National Fine Art foundry, of New York, where most of the bronze and plaster statues of the United States are cast, but the guide would not have it that way."

At Kitty Hawk the wind blew at the rate of sixty-eight miles an hour and was probably much heavier at Hatteras. No vessels have arrived from North Carolina waters, and it is the opinion of sailing masters that the violet could not have made the run up Pimlico sound under the heavy winds prevailing.

Another obstacle presents itself to the president's return: The water in the Albemarle and Chesapeake canal, through which the Violet must pass on her way to Norfolk, now measures only five and a half feet, the lowest ever known in that connecting link between Virginia and North Carolina. It is probable that the presidential party will have to go to Elizabeth City, N. C., and come to Norfolk by rail. The storm today around Hatteras is the worst so far this season.

Washington, December 13.—The dispatch which Private Secretary Thurber sent to the president two days ago stating that i was the desire of members of the cabinet that a special meeting should be held not later than Monday next, is understood to have met with a response indicating that the president will be back in Washington on or before that day.

It would surprise no well informed offilearned, but enough is known to show the horror of the occurrence. The explosion occurred on the works of the Lafolette railroad near Lafolette where a new road is being projected from there to Jellico.

Piled in the Explosives. A large force of men were at work blasting for a cut. Three kegs of powder had been placed in a sixteen-foot hole, and four sticks of dynamite were added to the deadly charge. A fuse was attached to the powder and lighted, and the man ran from the place to a safe distance to await the result. They waited fourteen, minutes and the charge failed to go off. The men were then ordered back into the hole by their foreman to readjust the fuse. They obeyed the order, all being apparently satisfied that the fire had become extinct. An Awful Explosion.

Just as they re-entered the noie, how-ever, the terrific explosion occurred, and the earth and stone for many yards around were dislodged and thrown into a conglom-

The explosion created the utmost excitement and consternation in the railway

Gaffney, S. C., Dece ber 13.—(Special.)—A freight train on the Southern railway was being run in three sections going north. The first two sections received orders at Spartanburg to meet a train at Thicketty, a side track seven miles below this place but the train dispatcher either failed to give a similar order to the third section or the order was misunderstood by the en-

There were present Dr. Armstrong, Dr. Willis F. Westmoreland, Dr. J. B. S. Captain Jackson was, after the ordinary time, completely under its influence.

The nature of the disease has already been outlined in yesterday's Constitution. It was evident to the physicians present that Captain Jackson had suffered former attacks of appendicitis in a milder degree than the present attack. He had told of having had a great deal of pain of this same description nearly a year ago when he was abroad and the physicians found testimony sufficient in the condition of the parts where lay the affliction to show that it had been from appendicitis that Captain Jackson suffered while in Europe on the occasion mentioned by himself. There were several adhesions showing plainly the marks of

The operation was performed by Dr. Willis Westmoreland in a most successful manner and Captain Jackson was put to bed again in as good condition as the patient could have experienced under the conditions surrounding the case. Monday he complained of a slight pain, but in his usual vigor and manly courage passed the trifling ill by as but the passing of some momentary ailment and bore it with no further thought of its probable significance. He was active in his office that day and Monday night went to the brilliant reception at the Capital City Club in honor of Mrs. Potter Palmer, of Chicago The pain in his side clung to him there. When he went home from the reception he began to feel more keenly the pain that kept throbbing in his side and by the next morning he realized that it was something more serious than what he had at first fancied. He summoned his family physician, Dr. W. S. Armstrong, and asked for an expression of opinion from him as to the significance of his ailment Dr Armstrong, after a careful diagnosis, said Captain Jackson was afflicted with appendicit The patient was slow in thinking that his se could be so serous as that. He was given medicines to relieve his suffering and they were effective for awhile. But through it all the pain bore him company and returned with increased force even after everything had been done to release the patient from such suffering from an other cause save that of the dread affliction, appendicitis, the only permanent relief from which, according to medica science, rests with the surgeon's knife. Dr. Armstrong informed Captain Jackson that there could be no mistake about his affliction. He said that he had appendicitis of a very severe type. He declared that he would call several physicians into con sultation, which proposition Captain Jackson and the family readily agreed to, and Dr. Willis Westmoreland, Dr. W. S. Elkir and Dr. J. B. S. Holmes were called to consult with Dr. Armstrong about the patient's ailment and the proper treatment of th There was not the slightest difference o opinion as to the truth of Dr. Armstrong's verdict after these physicians had made diagnosis of the case. They all pronounced that the patient was in the grasp of the frightful affliction, appendicitis, and with one accord they all declared that an operation was necessary. There was some slight objection to the operation by members of the family for a time, but when the necessity of it was clear-ly presented there could be no reasonable doubt but that the sooner the operation could be performed the better for the patient. Captain Jackson said he was ready to be subjected to the knife if the attend-ing physicians in their wisdom deemed it necessary and with his wonted manly courage turned to his family and remarked that his mind was made up to have the operation performed at once.

There was every evidence that the patient would not have lived without the operation, for the affliction had already grasped itself firmly about his vitality. The failure to rally from the effect of the operation and from the loss of strength caused by his acute suffering caused the death of Captain Jackson.

His Last Moments. Captain Jackson slept but little night before last. It was not until 3 o'clock that he closed his eyes and dosed into a half-slumber. This sleep did not last long and the pa tient was soon awake again. He was par tially conscious all the while, though now and then he seemed to sink into a comatose He talked now and then with those who

"Galveston reports the Christmas trade smaller than one year ago. Weekly American Failures Only 392. New York, December 13.—R. G. Dun & Co. will say tomorrow in their weekly review of trade:

"Failures for the first week of December show liabilities of $3,104,831 against $4,036,866 last year and $4,761,400 in 1893. In manufacturing $1,157,760 against $1,427,415 last year and $1,730,044 in 1893; and in trading $1,892,821 and $1,789,944 in 1883; and in trading $1,892,821 against $2,401,451 last year and $2,591,565 in 1893. Fellures for the week have been 238 in the United States against 349 last year and fifty-four in Canada against forty last year. It has been a very quiet week without any disturbance. ed products slowly recede from the high water mark of speculation and no material increase in demand is now expected until after the holidays, but there is general con-pear. "Speculation in products is not very brisk, and in stocks decidedly inactive, except in a few industrials. The output of gold does not expand and the outward movement of products is a shade larger. Clearings are 10.4 per cent more than last year. Created Scarcely a Ripple.

"The government crop report caused scarcely a ripple of interest, though indiscarcely a ripple of interest, though indi-cating less than 6,400,000 bales of cotton and a larger acreage than had been ex-pected of winter wheat. 'The great supplies of cotton brought over from previous render it unimportant whether the y 1895 was seven or six million bales, except as affecting future planting, and the extensive organizations of planters to keep back their cotton deprive small receipts of their ratural influence. Whether from that cause or not receipts have recently been over 40 per cent smaller than last year, but takings of spinners and experts are also

"Iron furnaces in blast December 1st turned out 216,797 tons weekly against 217,306 November 1st, with an increase of 8,000 tons in stocks unsold. But actual consumption is much smaller than the output at present and prices again decline, No. 1 anthracita to $13.75, bessemer pig at Pittsburg to $12.60 and gray forge to $12.

Quotations Are Simply Bluffs. "Diminished products are weak and sell below quotations, though quoted prices average about half of 1 per cent lower for the week. Heavy orders by the Rockefeller interest for plates and other material to build vessels for transportation of Mosaba ore next year have strengthened the market somewhat, but the demand at the east is very light and most of the works have very light and most of the works have shortened forces considerably, while at Pittsburg structural forms, plates, sheets and pipe are in light demand, and some bar mills in the valley have shut up for want of orders. Higher prices are expected for ore and coke, and it is believed this will cause an upward turn in iron.

"The shoe manufacturer is getting rather more new business, mainly in cheaper goods by a reduction in prices which has averaged nearly 4 per cent since the last week of November.

"Business in cotton has not gained, and print cloths are lower at 3% cents, while a few more reductions are noted in prices of other goods. The manufacturer has had a highly profitable season, though dull now."

2 to 5 p. m.—Aragon roof garden con-

3 p. m.—Life-saving service exhibition. 5:30 to 10:30 p. m.—Electric fountain and tower of light.

The directors of the exposition are mak ing every effort to make Christmas week the greatest period of the fair.

Brilliant features for every day until the close of the exposition have been arranged and every day will be made illustrious. The desire of all connected with the exposition is to make the close much more brillian than was the opening, and to this end several thousand dollars will be spent by the committee on amusements and advertising.

The first stroke of the amusement com mittee was to secure the aid of the railroads and offer extraordinary inducements by a very low rate from all the cities and towns within five hundred miles of the city. This has been most successfully done and rates never before dreamed of have been made by all roads centering in Atlanta and connecting branches. From all points of the compass the people are coming to the exposition and advices received from the railroads indicate that the attendance will be larger next week than at any time since the opening of the fair. Posters have been sent to all railroad offices and in every waiting room a large colored lithograph has been placed upon the walls, calling attention to the reduced rates and extraordinary features of the exposition.

Another success achieved by the committee of amusements is the great drawing cards that have been secured for each day, Programmes outrivaling all previous occasions will be given daily and the evenings will be celebrated with fairly dazzling displays of pyrotechnics and other displays. There will be two more evenings of fireworks and Mr. Pain has announced that the programmes are more elaborate and expensive than any heretofore given. Innumerable rockets and bombs will be fired and the grounds will be made as bright as day. Every day will be made famous and the crowds that will throng the grounds will run the attendance far up into the thousands. The exposition directors have never hoped for the crowds that are com-ing, and the outlook is very promising in-

Christmas week is to be the greatest of all weeks and the railroads will have all they can do to care for the crowds that are coming. From Mobile, Montgomery and Birmingham letters have been received saying that large delegations are mak-ing preparations for the trip to Atlanta in the early part of next week. Letters have received from Savannah and Florida points to the effect that thousands are arranging for the excursions that are to leave in the next few days.

Bates Have Been Cut in Two. The railroads of the south have nobly reonded to the call of the exposition, From every road in the south and many roads above the Ohio river rates have been established that are the lowest ever before of Every railroad president and superintendent is working earnestly in behalf of the exposition and the rates that have been ured mean more to the exposition than anything that has yet been done. Not only have the roads granted a much lower rate than was ever hoped for, but they have done more; they have gone to work to ad-vertise the exposition from one end of the untry to the other and people will be told of the rates and the great features of the show from Dan to Beersheba.

The track prepared for the bicycle races is fast being filled in, and in a few more days the place will be made perfectly smooth and even, and there will be left no signs of the late racing event. Over the ground where the track was to be seen a few days ago will be placed finely ground gravel and cinders and the place will be placed in condition for the parade of the children on the 18th of the month—the day set apart for the celebration of the Christ-mas tree and Santa Claus.

The grounds are to be lighted from Roman candles and Japanese lanterns and the place will be just as bright as though the sun was shining at noonday. Neither pains nor money will be spared and all will be surprised at the great display

An Army of Children. It is expected on next Wednesday there will be more children on the grounds than have been through the gates up present time. From every school the entire number of scholars are coming, and the teachers have promised that if it is possible every school child in the city of Atlanta will be on hand and will partake in the exercises of the day and will march

In the center of the grounds will be placed an enormous Christmas tree, and around the central tree will be placed six smaller ones. The trees will be grouped, and the presents will be placed on the trees so as to make as bright and brilliant display as possible. The trees will be decorated with lights and lanterns and festoons and garlands will be placed over and around the trees.

Crowning all will be the presence of old Santa Claus as he descends from the top of the tree and begins to hand out the presents. The sight will be one that will make glad the heart of every child on the grounds, and many a little orphan, who otherwise would have been denied the pleasures of Christmas, will be provided for and will be given a gift.

Committees Appointed Yesterday. At a meeting of the woman's board and the amusement committee of the exposition yesterday afternoon the following commit-tees were appointed to take the Christmas tree celebration in hand:

FAR OFF NEW MEXICO.

SHE SENDS A DELEGATION TO THE EXPOSITION.

Mr. W. H. Pope, an Old Atlanta Boy, Is a Member of the Party-All Representative Citizens.

From the gallant territory of New Mexwill reach Atlanta today, bearing wit them the congratulations and best wishes of that princely empire of the west, which will shortly don the robes of statehood. Among the members of the party are Governor W. T. Thornton, the brilliant chief executive of the territory; Hon. Needham C. Collier, associate justice of the supreme court, a former Georgian and one of the commissioners from the territo ry to the Cotton States and International exposition; Hon. Henry L. Warren, ex-chief justice of the supreme court, and leader of the bar of New Mexico; Hon. E. W. Dobson, a leading lawyer of the territory; A. G. Wells, the general superintendent of the Atlantic and Pacific raffroad, one of the great lines of the southwest; William H. Pope, assistant attorney general of the territory, and one of the commissioners to the exposition; M. W. Flour-noy and A. A. Grant, capitalists, and several others

Mr. W. H. Pope, who is one of the members of the party, is an old Atlanta boy who went to New Mexico two years ago for the benefit of his health. He has rapidly forced his way to the front and is recogniz ed as the most promising young man of the territory. Several months ago he formed a partnership with the attorney general of the territory, and holds, therefore, at present, the position of assistant attorney general. He is also a commissioner to the Cotton States and International exposition from the territory and is a member of the commission to erect a capitol building for New Mexico. His many friends in At will be glad to hear of the h which his friends in the west have heaped upon him and his return to his old home

THE TENNESSEE TROOPS TAKE A REGRETFUL LEAVE.

How They Spent Yesterday in the City and at the Exposition-They Took in the Midway.

Yesterday was spent by the visiting Tennessee military men in seeing the sights of the city, shaking hands with their Atlanta friends and at the exposition grounds The Midway proved a popular resort for the younger men of the visiting compa-nies, still the gray uniforms of the old vets were not lacking in any great degree took in all the attractions from the exhilarating experience of shooting the chutes to the much talked of "couche-couche."

In the city groups of veterans could be seen at every turn, discussing war ex-periences, their picturesque confederate uniforms lending a striking contrast to the regulation uniforms of the other companies. The military men are all unanimous in their praise of their treatment while in the city and it was with regret that they boarded the Western and Atlantic train at 8:20 last night and left Atlanta behind them. Besides the veterans, who are composed of two companies, infantry and cavalry, and is known as troop A, of Nashville, the other companies are from Nash-ville, Chattanooga, Columbia and Gallatin, Tenn comprising the battalion companies of the First regiment national guard of that state, also battalions of the Second regiment and Battery A, of artillery,

From Nashville were the following; Company A, Captain A. C. Gillam; Company C, Captain E. B. Johns; Battery H, Captain Granville Sevier. From Columbia, Company B, Captain Fred Gamble.

From Gallatin, Company F, Captain J. Gillespie.

LOCOMOTIVE BOILER EXPLODES

And the Fireman Scalded by Steam The Cab Splintered.

Chattanooga, Tenn., December 13.—(Spe train No. 33, southbound from Oakdale Junction, on the Cincinnati Southern rail-Junction, on the Cincinnati southern har-road, was seriously injured this morning by a boiler explosion. The engineer, John Niles, had just gone into the telegraph office for orders at Emory Gap, leaving the fireman to do some switching. The rear of fireman to do some switching. The rear of the boiler, which projects into the cab, was blown out with such force that had the fireman been on his side of the engine he would have been blown into eternity. As it was the cab was carried off in splinters, the back trucks raised from the tracks and the engine thrown over on its side. McDonald was struck over the eye and ear by a piece of iron and hurled off his feet, besides being burned about the body by hot steam and water, but his injuries are not fatal. The locomotive, No. 524, is badly crippled.

A Compromise Reached. A Compromise Reached.

Mobile, Ala., December 13.—(Special.)— Negotiations have been pending several days between attorneys in the famous Laveretta will case, looking to an amicable settlement without going to the supreme court. Yesterday a compromise was reached and the matter definitely settled. The agreement provides that the estate of John Lawrence Laveretta, amounting to about $300,000, shall be equally divided between the three children. Besides the onethird division, Constantine Laveretta paid over $15,000, it is said, to offset the amount of certain property given him before his father's death.

ARNOLD FORGOT

The Instructions That Were Given Him by the Msater of Trains.

THE OPERATOR AT HALTON

Is Now Out of a Job and May Be Prosecuted for Negligence-News and Gossip from Macon.

Macon, Ga., December 13 .- (Special.)-The telegraph operator at Holton, whose name is Arnold, was responsible for the fatal head end collision on the Southern railway four miles north of here yesterday and it i not improbable that he will be prosecuted for criminal negligence. Arnold had orders from the master of trains to instruct Engineer Matthews, of the southbound freight, to wait on the siding at Holton and forgot to transfer them to Matthews, who ran his train on to his death unsuspecting of his impending doom. The authorities here today dismissed Arnold from the services of the road and say they will get legal advice as to whether he can be prosecuted.

Superintendent Beauprie and Trainmaster Beggs were on the scene of the collision all night and did not succeed in clearing the track until 3 o'clock this morning. The mangled bodies of Matthews and Mc-Coy, the unfortunate engineer and brake-man, were not rescued from the debris until about midnight. Superintendent Beauprie did not allow the night passenger trains to be very long delayed and ran them north and south over the Central railroad. The track is well cleared today and all trains are passing as usual.

Want a Depot.

A petition will probably be read before an early meeting of the council from the Macon and Birmingham railroad authorities asking the city to grant them four acres of city reserve land near the Central railroad compress for the purpose of a depot and car yard. It is understood to be the purpose of the Macon and Birmingham people to buy out the Macon and Atlantic Short Line and complete its line from Birmingham to Savannah, and it is believed that the city would be willing to grant the site upon a guarantee that the Macon and Birmingham would so extend its line. The work of extending the line from LaGrange to Birm-ingham is now going on and Manager Sparks has made several visits to New York lately in the interest of Macon and Birmingham stock. The property wanted for a site is abstractly valued at $25,000. The City Won.

The Stuart Case.

The Ella Ray Stuart case was called in the superior court this morning, and many witnesses have been examined. The woman is charged with performing crim inal operations upon several women that resulted in their death. It is believed that the case will develop some sensational features before it is finished. The courtroom is packed with negroes, who are greatly stirred up over the case. The wo-man is a black negress and has a horrible countenance. The case is the most inter-esting that has come up during this ses-step of court.

THE WOUND KILLED HIM.

Gray, Who Was Shot by Tillery at Dublin, Is Dead.

Dublin, Ga., December 13.-(Special.) David Gray, the eighteen-year-old boy who was shot through the bowels last week by Louis Tillery, the young sport, is dead. The murder, which was unprovoked, oc-curred near the house where Gray's mother resided. A party was at the house, when a row occurred between Tillery and Gray, which was renewed later on at another Tillery is in hiding around Dublin but no doubt will soon surrender to the au thorities. Ed and Ira Walker, the two young men charged with killing Ed Moss, the negro. have been released on bond to appear for trial at the next term of the superior court.

VISITED SAVANNAH.

New Mexico's Commissioners in the Forest City.

Savannah, Ga., December 13.—(Special.)—Governor W. T. Thornton, of New Mexico, and the party of commissioners to the Cot-ton States and International exposition ar-rived here early this morning and spent the day taking in the city. This was the form-er home of Judge N. C. Coilier, of the United States court of that territory, who is a member of the party. Other members of the party, all of whom are commission-ers to the exposition, are Judge Henry L. Warren, General Superintendent A. G. Wells, of the Atlantic and Pacifis railroad E. W. Dodson, M. W. Flourney, A. A. Grant and W. H. Pope, one of the commissioners of New Mexico. Mr. Pope is an old Atlanta boy and a graduate of the State university, who went west on account of his health, and who has made his mark out in that territory. They leave tomor-row for Atlanta via the Plant system and ern, and will stop a day at Indian Springs,

A Rome Manufactory To Introduce Its Goods Into Russia-Burning of a Barn Near Bome, Etc.

Rome, Ga., December 13 -(Special.)-A erriffic explosion occurred in the baggage car of the Chattanooga, Rome and Columbus southbound passenger train just above the city this morning.

The heater had got out of order some way and the gas allowed to accumulate, when suddenly the heater blew up, wrecking one end of the car.

The force of the explosion tore the roof off of a portion of the car and made a big hole in the end of it, but the car remained on the track. As it happened there was nobody in the car at the time, and as the heater was some distance from the baggage and mail, the only damage was to the

A Big Concession.

Manager Maddow of the Standard scale works, reports a big concession to that concern. Through the intervention of friends negotiations have been successfully carried through with Czar Nicholas, of Russia, for the introduction of the goods made here in that far-away land. Large ship-ments are being made of goods in that line to the Russian government and they are being rapidly introduced and are meeting with much favor among the Muscovites.

This is a big compliment to Rome as: manufacturing center, and shows that there is no lack of a market, at home or abroad, for the products of successful

The Old Folk's Concert.

The old folks' concert at Nevin's opera house tonight was a grand success. The house was crowded with an interested and delighted audience. All the actors played their parts and Judge Branham played the fiddle and the evening was one of uproarous enjoyment. It was gotten up for the benefit of St. Peter's Episcopal church and a snug sum was realized.

A Heavy Loss.

Today James Payne, a prominent farmer of Cocsa, was in the city and reported the less of his barn together with all his corn and forage by fire Wednesday night. By strenuous efforts the stock was saved. The loss was about $1,000 and the fire is supposed to have been the work of an incendiary. Bloodhounds were secured and an attempt made to catch the perpetrator, but without avail. Against the Company. In the case of Barney against the City Electric Railway Company the jury returned a verdict of $2,250 damages. Mr. Barney claimed to have been injured by being struck by a car. The case will be appealed to a higher court, as the company considers the claim unjust and the award excessive.

CHILD BADLY BURNED.

Its Dress Caught Fire While Playing at Home. of Mr. W. H. Brewer was very seriously burned this afternoon about 4 o'clock. The little one, who is between three and four years old, was in the dining room at home, playing with other children when in some way its dress caught fire and before it could be extinguished the child's left arm and side were almost cooked. The burn, while very serious and painful is not nec-essarily fatal and the attending physicians do not apprehend any especial danger to the little girl's life. Other small children were in the room at the time, but none were injured save this one. Besides the burns on the arm and side there are others on the neck and face, but they are not so serious.

COLUMBUS' ELECTION.

The People Will Select Their Officers

Today.
Columbus, Ga., December 13.—(Special.)—
No stone has been left unturned by the candidates for mayor and aldermen of Co-lumbus and tomorrow's election will, with-out doubt, be one of the most hotly contested fights ever witnessed at the polls in this city. Hon. A. A. Carson heads the people's ticket, while ex-Mayor Cliff B. Grimes's name appears at the head of the citizens' conservative ticket. Both of those gentlemen have submitted their claims to the people for mayor and each is con-fident tonight of victory tomorrow. So far as the candidates for mayor are concerned, the campaign has been conducted on an honorable and clean scale. Much bitter-ness has been engendered in the bond fight and aldermanic race, however, the greatest interest centering in the former

AND THE AIR WITH NOISES

Miss Nellie Block gave a lovely afternoon tea Friday from 5 to 7 o'clock in hon-or of her two cousins, Miss Knox and Miss Campbell, of St. Louis. The handsome residence of Mr. Frank Block, on Peach-tree, was filled with a gathering of the swell society people of Atlanta. The su-perbly furnished rooms were tastefully decorated with American Beauty roses and palms. The color effect in the dining room was pink and masses of pink La France roses were used on the table and about the room. Pink tapers with rose colored shades added much to the beauty of the decorations.

Miss Block's dainty, refined type of love liness showed to perfect advantage in an American Beauty, striped with silk trim-med in spangled net and American Beauty velvet. Miss Campbell was extremely handsome in Nile green satin and Miss Knox was charmingly gowned in corn colored silk.

Quite a number of Miss Block's friends assisted her in receiving at this most delightful reception.

Thursday afternoon Mrs. James Ethelbert Carlton gave a reception in honor of Miss Mattie Elkin, of Kentucky; Miss Hurt and Miss Thornton, of LaGrange. The beautiful home of Dr. and Mrs. Hurt, the parents of Mrs. Carlton, was used for the occasion, and was prettily decorated roses and many handsome palms. Here Mrs. Carlton and the three young ladies received the guests. The dining room was in pink, which color was used in a pretty way in the other rooms and halls. The table was beautifully arranged with bride roses, cut glass and rose-colored candles and shades. Mrs. Carlton, who is an unusually handsome woman, wore are elegant dress of brocaded satin, trimmed in pearls and duchesse lace. Miss Elikn was lovely in pink taffets and chiffon. Miss Thornton was pretty and picturesque in pink satin, with chiffor and ostrich tipa trimming. Miss Hurt was charming in white brocaded satin. Those who received were Mrs. M. S.

Brown, Mrs. W. A. Bates, Miss Caroline Johnson, Miss Loula Ray, Miss Boynton, Miss Margaret O'Hear, Miss Bright Rowe, Miss Annie May Hall, Miss Murphy, Miss Winship, Miss Colquitt and Miss Craig. Today at the residence of Mrs. William

After the ceremony at the church the wedded couple and the attendants were tendered an elegant reception at the residnce of Mr. G. Thomas Pope, brother-inlaw of the bride.

The bride is one of Washington's loveliest and most accomplished young ladies, while the groom is a gifted young minister of the gospel.

No couple has ever married in Washington that will receive more hearty congratulations than these two young people.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Davis, of Macon, have issued invitations to the wedding of their daughter. Miss Hattle, to Mr. Percy Henry Gambrell, of this city. The wedding will occur at the First Baptist church in Macon at 3:30 o'clock next Wednesday af-

Miss Anna Comer, of Savannah, arrived Saturday, and will be the guest of Miss Iza Glenn. Mrs. Garnett Andrews, after several days in the city, left for her home in Chatta-nooga Friday.

Miss Elizabeth Irvin, who has been the guest of Miss Joyner, returned to her home in Washington Friday. Miss Margaret Robertson, after a pleas-ant visit to friends in Atlanta, has re-turned to her home in Augusta. Miss Campbell and Miss Knox, of St. Louis, are the guests of Miss Nellie Block,

A NOBLE LIFE

SPENT FOR AND WITH SUFFER-ING WOMEN.

A Life's Work Perpetuated through a Faithful Daughter, and Becords of Priceless Value.

What a vast amount of misery and suffering has been prevented by the clear-headed foresight of one noble woman! She had struggled, labored, and sacrificed for the welfare of her sex. The eyes of the women of the world

As she recalled the past, and tried to penetrate the future, a smile of supreme satisfaction passed over her honest face as she remembered that her life's work would be perpetuated.

The room in which she sat contained turning to her daughter, she said, —

"My daughter, this room, as you well know, contains the records of my life's work, in which for many years you have so diligently assisted me.

"By earnest application you have compassed my methods; and it is a happiness to think that when I leave, the glorious work will, through you, go on.
"The mission is a noble one. Do as I have done: never permit a woman's appeal to go unheeded.

"These records tell of every case ever submitted to me; and it is my wish that the facts they contain shall in time prove a much-needed education to the women of the world."

Thus did Lydia E. Pinkham hand over to her daughter, Mrs. Charles H. Pinkham, what may be termed the salvation of her sex; and that wonderful remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which all druggists consider as standard as four, goes on redeeming hundreds of women from the fearful consequences of female disease.

The directors of the exposition are making every effort to make Christmas week the greatest period of the fair.

Brilliant features for every day until the close of the exposition have been arranged and every day will be made illustrious. The desire of all connected with the exposition is to make the close much more brillian than was the opening, and to this end several thousand dollars will be spent by the committee on amusements and advertising. The first stroke of the amusement con mittee was to secure the aid of the railroads and offer extraordinary inducements by a very low rate from all the cities and towns within five hundred miles of the city. This has been most successfully done and rates never before dreamed of have been made by all roads centering in Atlanta and connecting branches. From all points of the compass the people are coming to the exposition and advices received from the railroads indicate that the attendance will be larger next week than at any time since the opening of the fair. Posters have been sent to all railroad offices and in every waiting room a large colored lithograph has been placed upon the walls, calling attention to the reduced rates and extraordinary features of the exposition.

Another success achieved by the commit tee of amusements is the great drawing cards that have been secured for each day. Programmes outrivaling all previous occasions will be given daily and the evenings will be celebrated with fairly dazzling displays of pyrotechnics and other displays. There will be two more evenings of fireworks and Mr. Pain has announced that the programmes are more elaborate and expensive than any heretofore given. Innu merable rockets and bombs will be fired and the grounds will be made as bright as day. Every day will be made famous and the crowds that will throng the grounds will run the attendance far up into the thousands. The exposition directors have never hoped for the crowds that are com-ing, and the outlook is very promising in-

Christmas week is to be the greatest of all weeks and the railroads will have all they can do to care for the crowds that are coming. From Mobile, Montgomery and Birmingham letters have been received ed saying that large delegations are mal ing preparations for the trip to Atlanta in the early part of next week. Letters have also been received from Savannah and Florida points to the effect that thousands are arranging for the excursion that are to leave in the next few days.

SHE SENDS A DELEGATION TO THE EXPOSITION.

Mr. W. H. Pope, an Old Atlanta Boy, Is a Member of the Party-All Representative Citizens.

From the gallant territory of New Mexico a distinguished delegation of citizens will reach Atlanta today, bearing with them the congratulations and best wishes of that princely empire of the west, which will shortly don the robes of statehood. Among the members of the party-are Governor W. T. Thornton, the brilliant chief executive of the territory: Hon. Needham C. Collier, associate justice of the supreme court, a former Georgian and one of the commissioners from the territory to the Cotton States and International exposition; Hon. Henry L. Warren, exchief justice of the supreme court, and leader of the bar of New Mexico; Hon, E. W. Dobson, a leading lawyer of the territory; A. G. Wells, the general superintendent of the Atlantic and Pacific raffroad, one of the great lines of the southwest; William H. Pope, assistant attorney general of the territory, and one of the com-missioners to the exposition; M. W. Flour-noy and A. A. Grant, capitalists, and several others. Mr. W. H. Pope, who is one of the members of the party, is an old Atlanta boy who went to New Mexico two years ago for the benefit of his health. He forced his way to the front and is recognized as the most promising young man of the territory. Several months ago he formed partnership with the attorney general of the territory, and holds, therefore, at present, the position of assistant attorney general. He is also a commissioner to the Cotton States and International exposition from the territory and is a member of the ommission to erect a capitol building for New Mexico. His many friends in At-lanta will be glad to hear of the honors which his friends in the west have heaped upon him and his return to his old hon will be something of an ovation.

No formal exercises will be held at the auditorium on the exposition grounds, but a day will be set apart in honor of New Mexico, whose citizens have journeyed over two thousand miles to express their admiration of Atlanta's pluck and enter-

Mrs. Samuel W. Goode was appointed a committee of one to notify the various the much talked of "couche-couche."

In the city groups of veterans could be seen at every turn, discussing war experiences, their picturesque confederate uniforms lending a striking contrast to the regulation uniforms of the other compa nies. The military men are all unanimous in their praise of their treatment while in the city and it was with regret that they boarded the Western and Atlantic train at 8:20 last night and left Atlanta behind them. Besides the veterans, who are composed of two companies, infantry and cavalry, and is known as troop A, of Nashville, the other companies are from Nashville, Chattanooga, Columbia and Gallatin, Tenn., comprising the battalion companies of the First regiment national guard of that state, also battalions of the Second regiment and Battery A, of artillery.

From Nashville were the following; Com pany A, Captain A. C. Gillam; Company C, Captain E. B. Johns; Battery H, Captain Granville Sevier. Columbia, Company B, Captain

LOCOMOTIVE BOILER EXPLODES

And the Fireman Scalded by Steam. The Cab Splintered.

Chattanooga, Tenn., December 13.—(Special.)—Frank McDonald, fireman on freight ctal.)—Frank McDonald, fireman on freight train No. 33, southbound from Oakdale Junction, on the Cincinnati Southern rail-Junction, on the Cincinnati Southern railroad, was seriously injured this morning by a boiler explosion. The engineer, John Niles, had just gone into the telegraph office for orders at Emory Gap, leaving the fireman to do some switching. The rear of the boiler, which projects into the cab, was blown out with such force that had the fireman been on his side of the engine he would have been blown into eternity. As it was the cab was carried off in splinters, the back trucks raised from the tracks and the engine thrown over on its side. McDonald was struck over the eye and ear by a piece of iron and hurled off his feet, besides being burned about the body by hot steam and water, but his injuries are not fatal. The locomotive, No. 524, is badly crippled.

A Compromise Reached.

A Compromise Reached.

Mobile, Ala., December 13.—(Special.)—
Negotiations have been pending several days between attorneys in the famous Laveretta will case, looking to an amicable settlement without going to the supreme court. Yesterday a compromise was reached and the matter definitely settled. The agreement provides that the estate of John Lawrence Laveretta, amounting to about $300,000, shall be equally divided between the three children. Besides the one-third division, Constantine Laveretta paid over $15,000, it is said, to offset the amount of certain property given him before his father's death.

ARNOLD FORGOT

by the Msater of Trains.

THE OPERATOR AT HALTON

Is Now Out of a Job and May Be Prosecuted for Negligence-News and Gossip from Macon.

Macon, Ga., December 13 .- (Special.)-The telegraph operator at Holton, whose name is Arnold, was responsible for the fatal head end collision on the Southern railway four miles north of here yesterday and it is not improbable that he will be prosecuted for criminal negligence. Arnold had orders from the master of trains to instruct Engineer Matthews, of the southbound freight, to wait on the siding at Holton and forgot to transfer them to Matthews, who ran his train on to his death unsuspecting of his impending doom.

The authorities here today dismissed
Arnold from the services of the road and say they will get legal advice as to whether

he can be prosecuted.
Superintendent Beauprie and Trainmaste Beggs were on the scene of the collision all night and did not succeed in clearing the track until 3 o'clock this morning.

The mangled bodies of Matthews and Mc Coy, the unfortunate engineer and brake man, were not rescued from the debris unti about midnight. Superintendent Beaupric did not allow the night passenger trains to be very long delayed and ran them north and south over the Central railroad. The track is well cleared today and all trains are passing as usual.

Want a Depot. A petition will probably be read before an early meeting of the council from the Macon and Birmingham railroad authorities asking the city to grant them four acres of city reserve land near the Central railroad com-press for the purpose of a depot and car yard. It is understood to be the purpose of the Macon and Birmingham people to buy out the Macon and Atlantic Short Line and complete its line from Birmingham to Savannah, and it is believed that the city would be willing to grant the site upon a guarantee that the Macon and Birmingham would so extend its line. The work of extending the line from LaGrange to Birmingham is now going on and Manager Sparks has made several visits to New York lately in the interest of Macon and Birmingham stock. The property wanted for a site is abstractly valued at $25,000. The City Won. In the city court this morning the jury in the case of M. D. Tracy against the city brought in a verdict in favor of the city. Tracy sued the city for $5,000 damages, alleged to have been caused by the sewer

The Stuart Case.

The Ella Ray Stuart case was called in the superior court this morning, and many witnesses have been examined. The woman is charged with performing criminal operations upon several women that resulted in their death. It is believed that resulted in their death. It is believed that the case will develop some sensational features before it is finished. The courtroom is packed with negroes, who are greatly stirred up over the case. The woman is a black negress and has a horrible countenance. The case is the most interesting that has come up during this session of court.

This was the form-er home of Judge N. C. Collier, of the United States court of that territory, who is a member of the party. Other members of the party, all of whom are commissioners to the exposition, are Judge Henry L. Warren, General Superintendent A. G. Wells, of the Atlantic and Pacifis railroad; E. W. Dodson, M. W. Flourney, A. A. Grant and W. H. Pope, one of the com-missioners of New Mexico. Mr. Pope is an old Atlanta boy and a graduate of the old Atlanta boy and a graduate of the State university, who went west on account of his health, and who has made his mark out in that territory. A Rome Manufactory To Introduce Its Goods Into Russia—Burning of a Barn Near Rome, Etc.

Rome, Ga., December 13,-(Special.)-A terriffic explosion occurred in the baggage car of the Chattanooga, Rome and Columbus southbound passenger train just above the city this morning.

ing one end of the car.

The force of the explosion tore the roof off of a portion of the car and made a big hole in the end of it. but the car remained on the track. As it happened there was nobody in the car at the time, and as the heater was some distance from the baggage and mail, the only damage was to the

A Big Concession.

Manager Maddox, of the Standard scale works, reports a big concession to that concern. Through the intervention of friends egotiations have been successfully carried through with Czar Nicholas, of Russia, for the introduction of the goods made here in that far-away land. Large shipments are being made of goods in that line to the Russian government and they are being rapidly introduced and are meeting with much favor among the Muscovites, This is a big compliment to Rome as manufacturing center, and shows that there is no lack of a market, at home or abroad, for the products of successful southern manufactories.

The Old Folk's Concert. The Old folks' concert at Nevin's opera house tonight was a grand success. The house was crowded with an interested and delighted audience. All the actors played their parts and Judge Branham played the fiddle and the evening was one of uproarous enjoyment. It was gotten up for the benefit of St. Peter's Episcopal church and a snug sum was realized.

A Heavy Loss. Today James Payne, a prominent farmer of Cotsa, was in the city and reported the less of his barn together with all his corn and forage by fire Wednesday night. By strenuous efforts the stock was saved. The loss was about $1,000 and the fire is supposed to have been the work of an incendiary. Bloodhounds were secured and an attempt made to catch the perpetrator, but without avail.

Against the Company. In the case of Barney against the City Ejectric Railway Company the Jury returned a verdict of $2,250 damages. Mr. Barney claimed to have been injured by being struck by a car. The case will be appealed to a higher court, as the company considers the claim unjust and the award excessive.

The burn, while very serious and painful is not necessarily fatal and the attending physicians do not apprehend any especial danger to the little girl's life. Other small children were in the room at the time, but none were injured save this one. Besides the burns on the arm and side there are oth-ers on the neck and face, but they are not so serious.

COLUMBUS' ELECTION.

The People Will Select Their Officers Today.

Columbus, Ga., December 13.—(Special.)— No stone has been left unturned by the candidates for mayor and aldermen of Columbus and tomorrow's election will, with-out doubt, be one of the most hotly con-tested fights ever witnessed at the polls in this city. Hon. A. A. Carson heads the people's ticket, while ex-Mayor Cliff B. Grimes's name appears at the head of the citizens' conservative ticket. Both of those gentlemen have submitted their claims to the people for mayor and each is con-fident tonight of victory tomorrow. So far as the candidates for mayor are concerned the campaign has been conducted on an honorable and clean scale. Much bitterness has been engendered in the bond fight and aldermanic race, however, the great-est interest centering in the former.

THE CONGRESS ON AFRICA

LEARNING A GREAT AID TO CHRISTIANITY

Brains of the Colored Race in Session. Leading Thinkers on the African Question Here.

What was probably the most distinguished gathering of learned men of both colors that has ever assembled together within the history of the south met yes-terday morning when the African congress began the first session of its deliberations on the history, life and progress of the Christianization of the African.

There were delegates from every part of the United States, men high in the standing of their respective walks of life and of especial eminence on all affairs pertaining to the work of missions in Africa and the collection and distribution of mission funds in this and other countries.

Such an affair has only been held once in this country and that was on the occasion of the world's fair African congress nearly three years ago.

Atlanta has had within her precincts many gatherings during the exposition, but none will carry with it greater significance and be received with deeper interest than the deliberations of this body of men who are devoting their time and labor to the civilizing and Christianizing of the Af-

There certainly has not been gathered in any other city a more august body of col-ored divines and men of brains and eloquence in their race since the days of slavery. Colored men of deep learning, who have thrown around them a luster that has com-manded the admiration of the entire world of learning and to whom their sace look for the deliverance of their benighted brethren beyond the seas were in attendance.

The men selected to read papers during the course of the congress are all especially well fitted for the tasks assigned them and all occupy exalted positions in their re-

Many of them are men of years of experience in the work of missions in Africa and several have braved the burning rays of the torrid suns and thickest jungles to spread the truth among the ignorant tribes of Zululand and other parts of Africa.

Among the distinguished men who will read papers and who are especially eminent in the world of religion and letters are: Bishop I. W. Joyce, of Chattanooga, who is noted for his eloquence and depth of learning. He is considered one of the best orators in the Methodist Episcopal church and has addressed the largest audiences during his stay of eight years in Tennessee. It is said of him that on the occasions when he has addressed camp meetings owds that covered acres have listened to

Rev. R. S. Rust, D. D., of Cincinnati, is another man who has made the cause of the African his life work. He was for twenty-five years the corresponding secretary of the Freemen's Aid Society and has been instrumental in the erection of some of the largest and most noted negro institutions of learning in the country. Notably among these institutions are Clark university and the Gammon Theological meminary, of this city.

Mr. Heli Chatelin, 'the distinguished African explorer and philologist, is another whose deep learning and exhaustive re-searches have done so much for the spreading of the gospel to the remote parts of Africa and whose life is being devoted to the furtherance of the mission cause and the furtherance of the mission cause at the exploration of undiscovered country.

On returning to this country from a trip to Africa a few years ago this gentleman brought with him a negro boy who had learned to speak the English and several

Another eminent scholar and divine who was expected to be present during the conress was the Hon. E. W. Blyden, of Li-ria. He is one of the most distinguished African explorers in the world and is at present the minister from Liberia to the court of St. James. Owing to serious ill-ness he was prevented from making the voyage, so sent his regrets to the chair-man, President Wilbur P. Thirkield, of Gammon Theological seminary here, saying that he thought the time for the congre was a most opportune one, when all the world was looking to the dark continent a field for political, commercial and llanthropic effort. He hoped that the re commercial and sults of it upon the negro race of this would be such as to lead them to ke greater interest in the land of their

He said there would be within the next was taking active interest in the explorawas taking active interest in the exploia-tion and building up of regions which had been for generations seenes of warfare and carnage. Such, he said, was the interest and enthusiasm that the English were evincing for the opening of Africa that a few weeks ago when it was learned that the so-called king of Ashantee was placing obstacles in the way of England's efforts to bring that country within the pale of civilization that a magnificent expedition was organized at once containing the flower of the British army and immediately dispatched to the scene of the

Another noted divine who will address the congress is the Rev. Alexander Crummell, D. D., of Washington, D. C. Dr. Crummell is the pastor of the largest and most fashionable colored Methodist Episcongregation at the capital and is noted for his powers of eloquence and his depth of learning. He numbers among his congregation nearly all of the noted colored officials of this and many other adminis-trations and is highly thought of by the pegro population of Washington.

Dr. J. C. Hartzell, corresponding secretary of the Freedmen's Aid Society, is aneminent man of learning who will read a paper before the congress. This gentleman has a great reputation as a speaker and will be listened to with much

Another who will address the congress is T. Thomas Fortune, editor of The New York Age, probably the most widely read journal of the colored race in this country. He is a man of scholarly ments and of the most persuasive style and has gained for himself the respect and admiration of both the white and colored

One of the most interesting points of the ongress will be the illustrated lecture of M. French-Sheldon, entitled "From Sultan." which will be heard at the afternoon session today at the Moody tabernacle.

Mrs. Sheldon is probably the most noted female explorer in the country. It was she who penetrated the dark continent with of two hundred carriers and guards to Mount Kilamanjaro, and who explored the lake at the highest Mount Kilamaniar lititude in Africa.

Being a woman she was given greater vileges than a man and was enabled to the home life of the women of the ountry, and in doing this she learned uch of their habits, life, dress and genal character. During her trip she had er 1,000 views taken by her photographer, which are said tiful character, and tese she will use to illustrate her lecture this afternoon. On the same platform with her there will probably be seen the most unique group that has ever been beheld in Atlanta. There will be Orishetukeh Faduma and Bassa, a young women of the Bassa tribe. Bassa, a young woman of the Bassa tribe from the west coast of Africa. This young girl speaks English fluently, and will tell her hearers all about the life of her country and the habits and general char-acteristics of its people. She has been he heroine of a series of adventures from the time of her departure from Africa until her arrival in America, and will describe them all in her talk. She is now in the mission school at Asheville, N. C., and upon the completion of her educain the mission school at and upon the completion of her educa-tion she will return to work for the salva-tion of her people.

Another interesting figure of the congress

Dr. J. W. Hamilton, of Boston, one of the most popular speakers of New England, and one of the hardest workers for the cause of the negro. He is a man of great depth of thought and has spent many years in the solving of the negro problem. He is also corresponding sec-retary of the Freedman's Aid Society.

Another notable speaker is the Rev. M. C. Mason, D.D., of Boston. He is a corresponding secretary of the above society, and is a man of scholarly attainments and of great eloquence. He is most popular in the north, where he has addressed vast udiences in the cause of his less favored

Rev. Joseph E. Roy, of Chicago, who was hairman of the world's fair African congress, is another noted member who will address the congress. He has spent years in the collection of a series of illustrations of the life of the negro in America, and will use them in his illustrated lecture Sunday night, Dr. E. W. S. Hammond, editor of The Southwestern Christian Advocate, one of the leading colored papers of the world, will also address the congress on an important subje Yesterday's Session.

Dr. J. W. E. Bowen, who addressed the morning session yesterday, is teacher of historical theology in the Gammon Teological seminary, of this city. His paper on "The Comparative Status of the Negro at the Close of the War and Today" was one of the fine papers of the congress. and will, no doubt, attract the widest attention. He is a man of deep thought and many scholarly attainments, and handled his subject in the most comprehensive manner, drawing such forcible conclusions as would have convinced the most skeptical, and he had his audience spellbound by the force of his eloquence and the oratorical flights with which his speech was replete. It was Dr. Bowen who made the dedication speech at the negro building on the day of its dedication, and which attracted so much attention from the thinking men of the entire country.

What will be of great interest to the lovers of negro folk lore will be the paper to be read by Alice M. Bacon, of the Hampton Folk Lore Society of Virginia. The paper will be entitled "The Study of Folk Lore," and will be replete with interesting accounts of the old negro folk lore tales that were brought over to this country in the first days of slavery. The author of this paper comes from a famous line of preachers, who have left behind them names of greatness in the religious history of this country.

Another interesting and eminent member of the congress is Hon, H. K. Carroll, LL. D., of New York, editor of The Inde-pendent, one of the most noted literary journals in the world. He was superintendent of the United States census of churches of 1890, and is consequently fitted for the subject matter of which he will treat. His subject was "The American Negro in the Twentieth Century."
He read the paper last evening to a large and appreciative audience, and it was conus for the very able manner in which he treated the progress, enterprise and general improvement of the negro during the century.

The Morning Session Yesterday. The first session of the congress opened at 9:30 o'clock yesterday morning at Loyd Street Methodist Episcopal church to an audience that filled every seat and isle in that large edifice.

After the singing of the opening chorus prayer was offered by the Rev. R. S. Rust, of Cincinnati.

Governor Atkinson Introduced. Chairman Wilbur P. Thirkield then invited Bishop I. W. Joyce, who, after accepting the honor, introduced Governor Atkinson, who made a stirring address, in which he expressed his sympathies with the cause of the congress net only as the governor of the state of Georgia, but as an individual. He spoke at length of the efforts that have been made since the war for the furthering of the cause of the negro, the teaching both religious and educational that was going on with so much relentlessness and assured his hearers that he would do all in his power to assist those who had undertaken the care of such a propaganda. He spoke of his trip to the various celered institutions of the state several menths ago and said that he was gratified and amazed at the deep learning and schol-arly work of the graduating pupils he come contact with. He said it was an honor to the race and to those men who were laboring so zealously to forward the condition of the negro. He concluded his address by assuring the negro that as long as he remained governor of the state they should receive his protection and that all justice would be done them in all matters pertaining to their welfare and impartial treatment. At the conclusion of his address the building almost shook with the applause of the audience and a standing vote of thanks was given for the manner which he had urged the efforts being made in the cause of the engintenment of not only the negro of the Congo, but of the entire world. Mr. Chatelin's Paper.

At the conclusion of the governor's address Mr. Heli Chatelin read a paper entitled "A Bird's-eye View of African Tribes and Languages," which was one of the most interesting papers of the morning session. On account of his long residence among the tribes and his various explorations he was particularly fitted for the sub ect matter in hand and gave an interest ing account of the various people of Africa, their color, habits, language and general mode of existence.

In the absence of Dr. Blyden, of London, who was unable to be present, Rev. Josiah Tyler, a former missionary of long experience among the Africans, gave a touching account of his labors among these people. He repeated the Lord's prayer in Zulu language, much to the interest of those present. Dr. Tyler was for twentyfive years corresponding secretary of the Society, but was compelled upon illness to cease his labors and return to this country.

Smythe's Strong Speech. The next paper read was "The African n Africa and the African in America," by John H. Smythe, of Richmond, Va., exminister of the United States to Liberia and one of the most noted members of his race in the literary and political annals of this country. His paper, which was de-livered with a grace of style and force seldom heard at such assemblies, was a long and exhaustive resume of the status of the negro in Africa, his methods of work, and on account of his long residence Liberia and the constant association with the prominent native chiefs of the various tribes he was well fitted to treat of the subject which he selected.

He compared eloquently the situation of the people of Africa with the peoples of countries and even in this country, and brought forward such strong argu-ments to support the views he expressed as to show the result of deep and patient as to show the result of deep and pattern study of the matter he treated. He con-cluded his paper with: "If I have im-pressed you at all with the wisdom or propriety of confiding in the highest negro authorities and the best allen writings for reliable data respecting our race in the fatherland, and thereby awakened in you an interest and sincere desire for the wellnterest and sincere desire for the well-g of Africa and her races, our people, being of Africa and ner races, our people, and for information concerning that an-cient and most mysterious of lands, then I feel conscious of having made a con-tribution of information not wholly valueless to my countrymen that may tend to modify and dissipate general ignorance of us and of our antecedents and their coun-try, and 1 have done something toward awakening your downers. awakening your dormant self-respect, and given you some conception of the dignity which attaches to negro manhood and created in you a preference for your race before all other races. Ah! this sentiment, if produced, will place you en rapport with the negroes in Africa, who have no conception of any land greater, more beautiful han their own, any men braver and man-ter than themselves, any women loveller and handsomer than African women. The you will retire from this place with a feel-ing of stimulus rather than of satiety, of unrest rather than repose; then I shall re tire from my effort to interest you in Africa in Africa and Africa in America with satisfied pride in having performed something of a duty as a negro clear in his convictions of the high destiny in reserve for Africa aid its races, and of your duty to be loyal to the race, since true alleg ance will make us sharers in that glory which the sacred writing declares shall come, when Ethicpia shall stretch forth her hand to God."

Crummel's Speech Postponed. On account of the delay in the arrival of Rev. Alexander Crummel from Washington, his speech was postponed until later in the session of the congress. A general cussion was then begun by the Rev. H. T. Johnson, of The Christian Recorder, of Philadelphia, upon the paper of Mr. Smythe, which called forth some interest-ing remarks upon the subject matter in hand and in which these two and Rev. C. S. Smith, of Nashville, participated. The latter gentleman has only recently returned from a trip to Africa and took some exception to some of the remarks of the ex-minister to Liberia, who defended the position he had taken and supported his paper by facts and figures, which he readily pro-duced, much to the amusement of the gelegates and the audience. Rev. Smith added much interest to the congress by placing in the vestibule of the church two large cases filled with African curiosities which he collected during his trip and which wer viewed with much interest by the audience as they left the church.

Orishetuka Faduma on Africa. At 12:30 o'clock a recess was taken until 2:30, when, after prayer being offered by Bishop Holsey, of Augusta, the opening paper by Orishetuka Faduma was read by him, entitled "The Success and Drawbacks of Missionary Work in Africa by an Eyewitness." This paper was listened to with much interest both because of the personality of the speaker and on account of his long and laborous experience during his early youth spent in the land of his fathers. It was as follows: "We are now living in an age of intense missionary activity. The Christian church is realizing more than ever what is meant by the 'kingdom of God.' The Savior's commission to 'go and disciple all nations' is studied more closely than it ever was commission to go and disciple all nations is studied more closely than it ever was. From the church are proceeding men and women with consecrated zeal and lips touched with holy fire to publish the name of Christ at home and abroad. Where churches have been slow to move individuals have gone out, depending on personal effort and the strength of Jehovah. The missionary temperature of the church is rising every year. The spiritual system of that organization of the church whose temperature is not rising is in a bad condition and needs spiritual life to comprehend the commission, Go ye. mmission, 'Go ye.'

'There are now 561 foreign missionary

"There are now 561 foreign missionary societies obeying the call of the Master to win the world for Christ. Missionary work is no longer tentative. It has become a serious study, a science for all. Throughout the largest universities of the land are to be found volunteer bands and choirs on the philosophy of religion and comparative religion, besides annual lectures on missions from returned missionaries. Men and women are not expected to rush heedlessly to the foreign field; they are giving an intelligent study to their prospective fields of labor. There is much which is speculative in the study of the philosophy of missions. Nevertheless missionary work in this latter end of the nineteenth century has passed or is passing from the region of speculation to that of reality, from the stage of uncertainty and experimentation, to that of certainty that of reality, from the stage of uncertainty and experimentation, to that of certainty and verification. The art and the science of missions have been established. The main principles of management are settled; the one work is differentiated into its many branches; the definite aim of missions grows ever clearer to the view. There is no need of haphazard work. The missionary life is no longer a venture, a voyage of discovery, a groping for ways and means. It has become a business, a vocation a profession.

"The African people must hear the word of God in their own language. The Eng-lish or other European languages are valuable aids in the evolution of the native mind from heathenism to Christianity; they treasures in philosophy and natural sciences which they cannot very well dispense with. Let the white man's language be studied, but not to replace the native. None of the European languages native. None of the European languages is poetic enough, none is as euphonious, none touches the tender chords of the soul as the native language spoken to a native. If God is to be seen and felt and interpreted, let this be done by the eyes, the ears and the understanding of the native. The aim and purpose of Christian missions is not to Anglicize, Americanize or Germanize the world, but to Christianize it. The growth of the soul, in order that it may be fruitful, must be natural. What a tenfold blessing the English colony of Sierra Leone and the sister colonies of west Africa would have been in the Christianization of their interior tribes, if in addition to the study of the English language, the native languages were also studied and reduced to a system in all the schools. As far as I know no native language is studied in any of the schools in the British colonies in west Africa, not even in the mission schools. In most of these schools the students versed in oriental languages cannot speak the language of their parents. It is often difficult to have natives as missionaries to the interior. They are as ignorant of the language of their country as the foreign missionary. The age of miracles has not yet past. The missionary, in order to be heard and understood, must speak the word in the language of the people. Many have done it and can do it. One of the tests of a call to a foreign field should be the ability to study and acquire languages. It is a natural as well as an acquired gift. "Another drawback in the work of missions is the difficulty of having self-supporting churches. In many cases dependence on home churches has come to mean a life of parasitism. One of the causes of this dependence is found in a lack of foresight at the beginning of a mission. When natives are taught to expect all supplies from outside it is difficult to contine them that they are expected to supis poetic enough, none is as euphor none touches the tender chords of the mean a life of parasitism. One of the causes of this dependence is found in a lack of foresight at the beginning of a mission. When natives are taught to expect all supplies from outside it is difficult to convince them that they are expected to support themselves. To begin a mission with massive churches, fitted as they are in Europe or America, leaves the impression that the friends of missionaries are very rich. The natives are first astonished by the sudden grandeur and massiveness of their buildings. They pride themselves in them, but cannot keep them up. The best plan would have been to have a small beginning and gradually raise the standard. Begin with what the natives have, however small, and the time will come in the course of their training when they will be able to go up higher. Nothing is more destructive of the self-respect of a native than to place him in a position in which he is always a dependent. While it is true there are cases where praiseworthy attempts at establishing independent and self-supporting churches have been made, yet they are not as many as one would naturally expect. The author of 'Modern Missions in the East' strikes at the root of the matter when he says: 'But there has been, on the whole, a great failure to attack the problem at the right point and aim straight for this independence of the native church. Many causes have conspired to prevent this. Among these are: "1. The necessary inexperience of the early missionary.

"12. The failure to see that the aim of '22. The failure to see that the aim of early missionary.

"2 The failure to see that the aim of mission work is not simply the conversion of souls, but the founding of the native church.

"'2. An exaggerated estimate of the poverty of the people and of the difficulty of their supporting their religious leaders.

"'1. The unconscious growth, in some cases, of a spirit of domination, which leads the mission too often to exalt itself above the native church.

"The same suthor enunciates what may be aptly called 'axioms in the science of missions.' They are and should be the foundation on which all methods of church organization rest. They are:

"The native church in each country should be organized as a disfinct church, ecclesiastically independent of the church in any other country.

"2. The pastorate of the native church should be a native pastorate.

"3. The principle of self-control, self-help and self-extension should be recognized in the very organization of the church. To postpone them to days of strength is to postpone both strength and blessing-page 244.

"Paternalism in government, whether civil or religious, is destructive of true manhood; it crushes self-respect and independence and makes men become children. "It pauperizes, belittles and dwindles the individual to a helpless suckling. It wins thousands of adherents who are at best sycophants and cringers, men who will not dare express their thoughts for fear their missionary masters will be angry at them, and cut off their means of subsistence. Paternalism is rotten to its very core. 'Make the tree good and its fruit good.' What the church needs is not quantity but quality. A few independent churches filled with enthusiasm for saving souls and reproducing themselves are worth a thousand times more than the innumerable host of sucklings with which most of our churches are filled.

"It is a cause for regret that very little has been done in Africa toward the our churches are filled.

"It is a cause for regret that very little has been done in Africa toward the industrial development of the natives by Christian missions. Lack of funds may be at the back of it. But added to this is a blindness to what I would term the spirit of the age. The spirit of the age is largely materialistic, not necessarially unspiritual. The church, by failing to introduce the industries in mission fields, seems to be unwilling to recognize God in matter. It seems to think that a man's development is complete when he is religious. It has miserably failed to appreciate the fact that body and soul are linked together in this mundane system. Industrial missions are necessary as a means trial missions are necessary as a means to an end. For the following reasons they to an end. For the following reasons they should be encouraged:

"1. The development of the native.

"2. The self-support of missions.

"3. The self-respect of natives.

"4. A cure to parasitism and sycophancy.

"The need of Africa is a rounded Christianity, not a spiritual nor a physical hypertrophy. The song of the church and of missions for the new century should be Christ, tools and the man. It should be Christ impressing Himself upon the civilized man, ennobling his character, widening his horizon of life, and so transforming him that his sword shall be beaten into plowshares and his spears into Another hindrance to missionary work "Another hindrance to missionary weak is denominational rivalry. In this we have a repetition of the mistakes of the home field. It is a common sight in these United States to find from three to four kinds of the same denomination in the field. It is a common sight in these United States to find from three to four kinds of the same denomination in the same field, all of them weak churches, when one would do better and be self-supporting. Not that these churches differ in creed or government, but each has something peculiar which it means to emphasize at any cost. The co-operative system in foreign missionary work has not been sufficiently attempted. A careful division of fields and co-operation where needed would solve many difficult problems in native church government. When one looks at the extent of territory still untouched it seems like ignorance of one's mission and calling to go into places already occupied and attempt to oust a church. It does not seem like sincerity and carnestness to save souls when one is confronted with such sights. There would be better native schools and organized churches if the Christian church could be more economical in the distribution of its resources. Denominational rivairy, with its opposing creeds, is confusing to the native mind. It would certainly be a day of Pentecost to the Christian church when she can unite all her forces and do battle for the Lord: when narrow bigotry and religious intolerance will vanish because the Christian life; when the disciples of Christ shall emphasize life and character in such a way that a man's creed does not become a hindrance, but an aux the whole Christian file; when the disciples of Christ shall emphasize life and character in such a way that a man's creed does not become a hindrance, but an auxiliary; when societies will be large hearted enough to turn over their fields to some other, and betake themselves to regions beyond, where men and women are crying 'Come over and help us;' when there shall be a return of apostolic church government and we shall hear not of the churches, but the church in Egypt, the church in Sierra Leone, the church in Lagos, the church in Natal, the church in Gazaland. Surrounded with all these drawbacks, we can triumph over them when there is a unification of all Christian forces, when the Christian church sets out to conquer the world for Christ, having one aim and purpose, because it has one Lord, one faith, one baptism."

Bishop Turner Speaks

Bishop H. M. Turner, editor of The Voice of Missions, followed with an ably prepared paper on "The American Negro and His Fatherland," and he was follow ed by the Rev. J. W. E. Bowen, Ph.D., D.D., of the Gammon Theological seminary, who read a paper on the "Compara-tive Status of the Negro at the Close of tive Status of the Negro at the Close of the War and Today."

After this a general discussion followed lead by Rey John Braden, D.D., president of Central Tennessee college, of Nashville, in which the several papers read during the afternoon session were treated in various lights and the best means conducive to the advancement of the race were free ly and seriously discussed.

The Evening Session. A recess was then taken until evening when the third session was begun at 7 o'clock at Big Bethel African Methodist Episcopal church, Bishop W. J. J. Gaines presiding. After the opening prayer by Bishop Harris, of Salisbury, N. C., a choral service was rendered in a most creditable man ner by the choir in which the original hymns on Africa, written by American negroes, were sung with much enjoyment to the large audience which has marked all of the deliberations of the sessions. A paper, "The American Negro in the Twentieth Century," was read by H. K. Carroll, LLD., of New York, which in turn was followed by one entitled, "New Things We Have Learned About Africa," by Cyrus C. Adams, of The New York Sun, and illustrated by numerous York Sun, and illustrated by numerous stereopticon views. This will prove one of the most interesting lectures of the congress, both on account of the wide knowledge o Africa held by Adams and upon his excellent ability to treat the subject in hand with such a delightful grace of description that delighted the hearers and held their interest throughout.

Today's Session. The sessions of the day then concluded to resume this morning at Lloyd street church at 9:30 o'clock when the followng services will be held:

The introduction of Munyon's Remedles The introduction of Munyon's Remedles into other cities, too numerous to mention here, has always been fellowed by the same results—a wonderful reduction in the death rate. Such success would have turned the heads of nine-tenths of the medical men in the country, and their services cost the afflicted a small fortune. This can be proven by hundreds in any city who have occasion to ask the advice of physicians with only a local reputation. Not so with Professor Munyon; he is the same quiet, unassuming man as ever, a close student, spending his time and money in endeavoring to find some way by which he can improve the curative powers of his endeavoring to find some way by which he can improve the curative powers of his remedies. The services of the best medical and scientific men in the world are purchased by him without regard to cost. His object is to reach the masses, give them a line of medicine that cures disease, and at as little cost as possible. How well he has succeeded thousands of afficted in Atlanta can state. There is scarcely a family in the city who does not know of some person who has been cured by these remedies during the past two weeks. Professor Munyon also believes that any physician who, knowing that certain new preparations have cured hundreds of people and after failing to give relief with ms own, refuses to prescribe such because they do not belong to his school, is guilty of a great crime.

FOTHE GREAT EXPOSITION The news about the south's est enterprise and gossip special features there.

The Railways and the Exposition. The railways have beaten their record at last!

From the 19th to the 25th inclusive the cut-rate tickets on the southern lines to the exposition will be the lowest ever known!

Let us look at some of the figures. What do you think of a round-trip ticket from Washington to Atlanta-1,300 miles-for only $8.75!

Then there will be round-trip tickets from Cincinnati for $7.15; from Louisville for $6.70; from Richmond for $6.20; from Birmingham for $3; from Chattanooga for $2.45; from Anniston for $1.85; from Montgomery for $3.15; from Savannah for $4.20; from Columbus, Miss., for $4.35; from Americus for $2.65; from Jacksonville for $5.25; from Evansville for $6.80; from Charlotte for $4.40, and from hundreds of other points at proportionate rates.

This is the greatest cut in rates ever known in the south. It is less than a cent a mile. It reduces rates to less than one-half from points over 250 miles from Atlanta.

All of the northern railways have willingly joined in the cut, with the sole object of alding the exposition, and giving all classes of our people a chance to attend it. While all of the officials deserve credit for their liberal spirit. it is only just to mention the fact that Colonel Samuel Spencer has from the first shown a desire to help the exposition in the matter of low rates.

With these figures before them our readers will see that it is cheaper for them to visit the exposition than to stay at home. The low rates come at the right time, just before the Christmas holidays, and they should be taken advantage of by thousands of people every day in every southern state.

Remember the exposition will positively close its gates on the 31st. The time will not be extended, and those who desire to see it will have to come within the next sixteen days.

An Every-Day Danger.

The unfortunate death of Colonel Hart. of Palatka, which was caused the other day by his attempt to alight from an electric car while in motion, should be a warning to everybody.

When a person has occasion to leave street car the best and safest plan is to wait until the car stops; but if one must step off while the car is in motion care should be taken to alight on an even surface, and the passenger should be prepared to walk briskly a few steps in the direction in which the car is running.

Even this is not always safe, and those who are not very active and surefooted will find it more satisfactory to wait until the car stops before they get

Colonel Hart's accident is one which is liable to happen every day, and people will find that in such matters a little surplus caution will not come amiss.

Captain Henry Jackson.

The sudden death of Captain Henry Jackson, of this city, is a peculiarly sad ending of a brilliant career.

Henry Jackson was descended from a distinguished revolutionary and colonial family whose services in peace and in war fill many of the brightest pages of our history. In his youth he enjoyed exceptional educational advantages in Europe, at a time when his father, General Henry R. Jackson, of Savannah, was minister to Austria. At the breaking out of our civil war young Jackson entered the confederate army and served until the end of the struggle, making a fine record as a gallant officer whose military ability and courage were recognized by all with whom he came in contact.

After the surrender Captain Jackson came to Atlanta and opened a law office while the city was still in the ashes of the siege. From that time the story of his life is familiar to many of our readers. As supreme court reporter, as a legislator and as an eloquent and learned lawyer he has for nearly a generation held a prominent place in the legal and political circles of his state.

In professional and social life this chivalrous and high-souled Georgian was always a leader. He possessed in a rare degree the get of personal mag-netism, and the friends he drew around him were bound to him as by "hooks of People who did not understand him re garded him as a proud man, but his pride was of that high order which belongs to the best type of culture and manhood. His character was cast in the old-time mold of chivalry, and in thought and action he always realized the popular ideal of a knightly gentle-

If he had been willing to resort to the methods of practical politics he would have reached a very high place in political life, but he could never gain his own consent to indulge in the arts which are now commonly practiced by politicians. It suited him better to devote himself to his profession, and to give his leisure time to his family and to the social circles in which he was a avorite.

His death came when he was in his prime, and when his friends were looking forward to a long and useful public career for him. It is natural that we should regard it as a sad and an untimely ending, when we think of his splendid talents, his comparative youth, and the promise which life seemed to hold for him. The blow must be a crushing one to his devoted family, who will have the heartfelt sympathy of all in their bereavement.

Senator Morgan's Speech. Senator Morgan's speech in the senate last Monday, based on certain political dodgers circulated in this country by Sir Julian Pauncefote, the British mbassador, for the purpose of influ-ncing public opinion against the refusal of congress to award a "lump sum" to Great Britain in payment of damages that have never been made the subject of negotiation or treaty, has been widely commented upon.

The resolution to pay this lump sum was defeated in the house before it had been acted on by the senate, and when it was brought up in that body Senator Morgan, who as a member of the Paris mmission for the settlement of the Bering sea matter was familiar with the whole business, gave the scheme such an airing as deprived it of all vitality.

The senator's earnestness in the matter gave serious offense to the British ambassador, and that functionary made haste to explain the matter to Earl Kimberly, his diplomatic boss, taking occasion to criticise congress and to single out Senator Morgan as the victim of his rhetoric.

All this would have been very well if it had been confined to the privacy of diplomatic records, but Sir Julian thought so much of his effort that he caused it to be embodied in a pamphlet which he gave out to the press from Washington, using it as a political dodger. In this dodger he declares that the payment of the lump sum was defeated by "republicans, populists and forty-eight democrats," and then proceeds to give Senator Morgan a shaking up because of his exposure of the

The senator's speech last Monday. which was drawn forth by Pauncefote's dodger, was both dignified and able, and something more. The attack made upon him gave Senator Morgan an excuse for going into the details of the Bering sea dispute, and he threw the search-light of truth on the contentions of Great Britain, all of which are based on a spirit of greed so common and so paltry that one wonders how a great nation can lend its influence and its diplomacy to efforts to pay a premium for rascality.

Senator Morgan's speech made a pro found impression on the senate and at its close there was not a dissenting vote on the resolution which he had introduced, referring the whole matter to the committee on foreign affairs for investigation.

It is difficult to understand the motives of the British ambassador in making a public attack on congress, and in singling out a distinguished senator for criticism. He must have either an exalted idea of the influence of Great Britain on the political affairs of this country, or he must have had early information that the absurd claims of his government would have no standing before the representatives of the American people. This display of diplomacy, taken in connection with the remarkable antics of another British minister to this country, leads to the conclusion that Great Britain is determined on sending her queerest fish to these shores.

Do as Rome Is Doing.

In a very large way the city of Rome is illustrating the possibilities to which The Constitution has been calling the attention of our people. Some of the largest cotton mills in the country are to be erected in that neighborhood, and this fact is due as much to the spirit and energy of the citizens of Rome as it is to the special natural advantages offered to cotton spinners.

In other words, Rome has taken pains o supplement its natural advantages by a substantial expression of the interest that such a community should feel in promoting the changes that are sure to be wrought by the completion of the enterprises now on foot there. The people of Rome have demonstrated their confidence in themselves and in their resources, both natural and artificial, and this display of civic unity and energy has had the inevitable result of impressing strangers who have capital to invest. Consequently, those who have watched developments in that section will not be surprised to learn that the capital stock of the Trainer mills, which are not yet built, is likely to be increased to $1,000,000. Nor will they be surprised to learn that large additions have already been planned for the mills which the Massachusetts company have nearly completed. These are called the Lindale mills, and when the additions have been made they will be the largest mills in the south.

It is not by good luck that these establishments have selected the neighborhood of Rome as their site, but by sheer hard work on the part of the peo-

can be accomplished by any and every community, for the people there saw the opportunity and forcibly seized it; but we do say that in proportion to the energy and enterprise it may see fit to display every community that has any advantages whatever can secure the benefits of a cotton mill of some kind, large or small. It is in this direction that the future prosperity of the south must lie. To talk of substituting some other agricultural product for cotton is the idlest of vagaries, and can only emanate from those who do not take the trouble to give the matter serious thought. Even to materially reduce the cotton crop in the south is to offer a premium to those in other lands who are now engaged in competing with our planters. We understand and sympathize with the difficulties that have been created for cotton growers by the British gold standard, but we are confident that these difficulties cannot last unless the people, blind to their own best interests, conclude to indorse the financial system that has been forced on them by British dictation. Meanwhile, they cannot do better than take advantage of the conditions that are making cotton spinning unprofitable in the east.

By spinning the cotton into yarn and weaving it into the various grades of marketable fabrics before the crop gets out of sight of the plantation, the value of the staple will be more than quadrupled, and a large part of this value will enter into and become a part of the general prosperity of the south; and will add to the comfort and welfare of all classes of the population.

There is no surer or safer investment than the stock of a southern cotton mill. and it is for that reason that the citizens of even the smallest towns can put together a number of small sums and in his way secure a cotton mill of some kind, even if it be nothing more than a varn mill.

It is said that John Sherman has realized $127,000 on his vivid recollections. If John will now whirl in and remember the truth, ne will be a rich man before he dies.

Mr. Chairman Carter is a-feard that his party has too much confidence. But isn't that what is needed by a party that is engaged in playing a confidence game? Why shouldn't the next republican candidate for president come from Bucyrus, St. Louis seems to be a notch bigger han Chicago. Mr. McKinley's boom seems to have arrived at a point of growth where only an ex-office holder can straddle it.

"Suppose," suggests a contemporary, "that congress should conclude to go duck hunting?" Well, why not? Congress has just as much to gain by it as the president-ne more, no less.

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

Senator Sherman in a recent letter to the on. Joseph C. Devin disclaims the charge that he had accused General Garfield of erfldy. The senator says: "I have receiv-d the marked passage of The Daily Mirror which you were kind enough to send me The writer of it no doubt got his idea of my reference to Garfield in the convention of 1880 from an article based on radical errors by a hasty review of my chapter of collections in respect to that convention. The whole chapter has been since printed and it shows that I treated Garfield with great kindness, and instead of charging him with perfidy, I relieved him from that say any more about it, as when the book is published every one can see that both the article in The Mirror and the one upon which it is founded are erroneous.'

Mayor Pingree, of Detroit, is interestin himself in securing the release of a Detroit young man who enlisted in the army when eighteen, shortly thereafter deserted and was sentenced to eighteen months' impris-onment. A letter-from the acting secretary of war informed his honor that the lad would have to serve out his sentence. This led the mayor to declare that a man ought to be allowed to resign from the United States army at any time he wished. "They let other government employes resign at will," said he. "Why shouldn't a soldier have that privilege in time of peace? It would be better for the army. The number of would-be recruits now far exceeds the demand. Reduce the time of service to one year and allow the men to resign when they wish. That would't destroy the discipline of the army, more persons would receive military training and the millions of dol-lars spent on military prisons could be used for another purpose, for under those cirumstances there would not be any desertions from the army."

It is not generally known that Mrs. Ern estine Schaffer, the "Angel of the Tombs," is a wealthy woman living in a fine house near Central park. She is the owner of a great deal of property and on Sundays and holidays may be seen driving a team of beautiful ponies in front of one of the finest little road carts in town. Mrs. Schaffner's time, however, instead of being spent in idleness or in seeking recreation, is devoted to a cause to which she has resolved to give the rest of her life. This is nothing more or less than the work of helping peo-ple unjustly accused of crime and of assisting others who have been guilty of wrong doing, and whose sentences have expired. Scarce a day passes without the "Tombs angel" extending a helping hand to some unfortunate victim of over-zealous guardianship. She has two offices down own and engages a lawyer by the month to assist her. On several occasions she has loaned out more than $20,000 for bail, and she declares that her losses are less than $1,000. Just now she is taking a deep inter-

This poem is called "How Shall I Love You?" and is signed "Will C. Ferril." We invite Mr. Bok's attention to it because it was written for and published in his excellent magazine, The Ladies' Home Journal, in the month of December, 1894, and its real author, who was paid for it by Mr. Bok lives in Atlanta, and is surprised to se his work going the rounds a year afterwards under another name. And The Jenness Miller Monthly may make a note of this at the same time. It may not now be too late to recall that check they doubtless sent "Will C. Ferril" for the Brief mention has been made in the Atlanta papers of "The Third World," for some weeks past, and now Mr. Byrd, the publisher, informs us that the printers and electrotypers have been busy with it and that, though somewhat late, the book will 'in the ring" about the beginning of the Christmas holidays. It was a six morths' serial in The Sunny South, contains about 120,000 words, and will make a book of about 350 pages. It is Henry Clay Fairman's masterpiece, and will rank him with the best novelists of the country.

STATE POLITICAL NOTES. The Griffin News calls attention to the fact that while Fleming duBignon came all the way from Savannah to Atlanta to make a "sound money" speech, Governor Atkinson, in Atlanta, the same day appointed the strongest free silver man in southeastern Georgia to be judge of the city court of Savannah. Says The News:

"Not only does this put the beer on Savannah, as one of her politicians halfadmiringly admitted, but it emphatically proves that no taint of goldbugism attaches to the present administration of affairs in this state."

The voters of Georgia will again be asked to ratify a proposed amendment to the constitution providing for three additional ustices of the supreme court. Heretofore the people have defeated every movemen in this direction. Referring to this The Columbus Enquirer-Sun says: Columbus Enquirer-Sun says:

"One reason is, we think, that the measure was not given sufficient prominence in the campaign preceding the election, and the people were not sufficiently educated to its necessity. Political speakers addressed their audiences with a mention of the supreme court amendment, and the press was apparently indifferent. In the next campaign it should be made a leading feature of the campaign, on the stump and in the press. When the people are advised of the condition of their supreme court, the burden on their judges, the necessity of an increase, and that these new judges, and all supreme court judges thereafter are to be elected by the people, it will bring it to a successful issue."

The Athens Banner has this paragraph: "Several of the congressional aspirants in the fifth district of Georgia are reported as being heartily in favor of declaring war against Great Britain on account of the Venezuela affair. In that way they hope to get rid of Congressman Livingston, whom they are sure would enlist in the Venezuelan army."

Says The Griffin News: "It would be well for some politicians in this state to remember that the only man who ever really got the earth was old man Atlas, and he afterward confidentially admitted to his intimates that he had really got too much of a good thing."

William Clifton will probably be a candidate for another term as secretary of the senate and Mark Hardin is generally supposed to be not averse to another term as clerk of the house.

This is a question with The Griffin News: "Will John Hardeman run against Charley Bartlett in this district next summer? Charley couldn't claim the right to a second term with his record so fresh on that ques-

IS NOW COLONEL HEMPHILL.

MAYOR CALDWELL APPOINTS W. A. HEMPHILL ON HIS STAFF.

They Became Great Friends During the Latter's Visit to Cincinnati and the Former's Visit Here.

"City of Cincinnati, State of Ohio, U. S. A.

To All Whom These Presents Shall Come. Greeting: Know ye, that reposing special trust and confidence in the patriotism, valor, fidelity and ability of W. A.
Hemphill, I do hereby appoint and commission him as a member of my staff on the visit of the Cincinnatians to the Cotton States and International exposition with the rank of colonel. In testimony whereof I have hereto set my hand and caused the seal of Cincinnati, O., to be affixed at the mayor's office this 27th day of November, 1895. JOHN A. CALDWELL,
"Mayor."

The above is a copy of a commission received by Colonel W. A. Hemphill appointing him to the rank of colonel on the staff of the mayor of Cincinnati. It is not an every day occurrence that a mayor appoints a colonel in another city over 500 miles away, and when such a thing is done it is always complimenatry, as in this case. When Mayor Caldwell came to Atlanta on Ohio day several days ago he and Colonel Hemphill became great friends Mayor and Mrs. Caldwell were hospitably received by Colonel and Mrs. Hemphill and as a result of their friendship Mayor Caldwell has made the colonel a member of his staff.

In a letter to Colonel Hemphill, Mayor Caldwell says: "We all hope for the realization of the expected benefits of your great exposition, among which none can be of more lasting duration than that of friendship and confidence gained by personal contact with your people."

dence gained by personal contact with your people.

"I have forwarded you a commission as colonel on my staff, which I trust you will accept. Both Mrs. Caldwell and I are indebted to many officials of your exposition and your city, but to none as much as to you and your good wife for the splendid time enjoyed while in Atlanta.

"With regards and the hope that we may be enabled to extend to you at least some measure of the courtesies enjoyed at your hands whenever you can make it convenient to visit this city, I am with kind regards from Mrs. Caldwell and myself,

MANAGER FRICK IN TOWN.

MAN WHO STOOD AGAINST THE STRIKERS AT HOMESTEAD.

He Is Manager of the Largest Iron Foundry in the World-Has a Party with Him.

Mr. Henry C. Frick, the right hand man of affairs of Mr. Andrew Carnegie, and a director in several of the largest steel and iron mills in the world, is in Atlanta, where he has come to see the exposition. He arrived, accompanied by a party of twenty-five ladies and gentlemen, at 6 o'clock yesterday evening over the Southern in the Pullman combination car, "Iolanthe." On account of a wreck which occurred at Tiffety, about 200 miles distant from Atlanta, he was prevented from reaching the city until that late hour, his train being delayed eight hours.

The car was detached on reaching the nion station and taken out to the sid of the Southern at the exposition grounds, where it will remain until the departure of Mr. Frick and his party, which will not be for some days. During his stay in Atlanta Mr. Frick will be the recipient of many attentions by prominent gentlemen of the city, and his visit to Atlanta will be made as pleasant as possible.

Mr. Frick gained a national reputation during the labor riots at Homestead, Pa., a few years ago, caused by the reduction of wages and the desire of the Homestead steel and iron works to make a new sliding scale at lower figures than the one existing. The riots, which, it will be re-membered, were of the most violent na-ture, were only quelled after the state militia had been called to the scene of action, where they remained for upward of two weeks. Mr. Frick was attacked by one of the strikers and fired upon, receiving a wound which at first was considered of a serious nature, but he recovered after the Christmas holidays have begun.

The Next Term Begins the First Week

The schools adjourned much earlier this year than usual, and instead of having only one week the children will enjoy a three weeks' vacation. The term that has just closed has been most successful session, and the schools have enjoyed an attendance never before equaled. Every building was crowded to its utmost seating capacity and the different grades have been badly crowded. The prospect for next year is exceedingly gratifying, and indications give rise to the belief that even a larger attendance will be had in January than in the session just closed. Beginning yesterday after-noon the teachers entered upon a much needed rest, and they, as will the children, will thoroughly enjoy the next three weeks of vacation.

ded Bank Swindler and Confidence Man Arrested This Morning.

E. RHEUBOTTOM LOCKED UP

Is Said That He Intended To Wreck

an Atlanta Bank.

HECKS, DRAFTS AND OTHER PAPERS GALORE

Mr. Harry Cassin, the Well-Known Cashier, Deals with a Supposed To Be a Confidence Worker.

H. E. Rheubottom was arrested by dectives at 1 o'clock this morning and ocked up at police headquarters. Rheubottom is said to be a big bank windler and confidence man. He is said

The arrest was made at the Alcazar hotel. here the man has been some time. It ems that he opened an office here recently and has made the impression that he is a capitalist. The detectives believe that Rheubottom came here to conduct a tremendous bank swindle and they say that papers in the man's possession will prove the assertion The man is said to be a member of a big gang of swindlers having headquarters in New Orleans and it is claimed by the officers paving the way for the carrying out of a big scheme.

It seems that Rheubottom was suspected of crookedness yesterday and it was re-ported to the detectives. He was shadowed during the day and by his peculiar actions his arrest was decided on late last night. Two valises and several big bundles of papers were taken to police headquarters this morning.

Rheubottom was searched and all of his papers were thoroughly examined. Several dozen blank checks, bonds, notes and papers of all kinds were found in the man's baggage. Some of the papers seem to indicate that the man is a professional confidence man and the detectives claim that he is a big catch.

veral dozen checks paid, unpaid, signed bundles of papers. Many of the papers, checks, drafts and cards found bear the firm name of Calkins & Co. 206 St. Charles avenue, New Orleans, and h is believed that that firm name is one used by a gang of swindlers.

Among the papers there is a cipher code presumably used for telegraphic purposes. One of the words used when translated means that an arrest has been made and that the party arrested cannot get ball. Other words appoint places of meeting and others are warnings of danger. The code is a peculiar one and seems to be one not likely to be used except by people bent on the Georgia Loan and Savings bank and attempted to check against them, but Mr. Cassin declined to honor the checks. Mr. Cassin will probably swear out a warrant against him this morning. The amount of the transaction is not known. It seems that Rheubottom is accused of having the blank and signed checks for the purpose of crooked manipulation. The officers think that checks are deposited by Rheubottom and money secured on them, the procedure resulting in a loss for the cashers of the checks.

It is believed that Calkins & Co. is a mythical firm—one used for the manipula-tions of the schemers. Many checks sign-ed by that firm, blank except the signature, for big amounts were in the valises.

Checks on banks in every part of the country for different amounts will amount to several thousand dollars. Some advertising schemes breezily portrayed with glowing descriptions of land lots and other things are a part of Rheubottom's prop-

It is said that Rheubottom came here and shortly afterwards gave out that he desired to purchase a lot of stock of different desired to purchase $15,000 worth of Atlanta and West Point bonds, and had almost completed the deal for the stock.

The detectives believe that a gigantic indle would have been perpetrated had eubottom not been arrested. Some starting developments may be unearthed today in the case. Several confederates of the man are expected to arrive in the city from New Orleans to assist in the alleged contemplated deal. They may be met on the way by Atlanta officers and arrested before they reach the city.

Mr. Cassin, of the Georgia Loan and Savings bank, is satisfied that Rheubottom is the most complete crook Atlanta has seen n years.

Rheubottom called at the bank and de-Exchange bank of Waynesboro, Miss., one for $59.85, the other for $150, both signed by L. Piper. At the same time he handed in a check for $50 on the American National bank, of Denver, all of which were left for collection. A few days ago through the Lowry bank a draft for $46, signed by one Thomas, came draft on Rheubottom from New Orleans. Rheubottom gave a check on the Georgia Loan and Savings bank or the amount and secured the draft. Mr. Cassin, however, declined to pay the check dicious cuts. As a whole, the performance was an eminently satisfactory one, although when sifted down, there were some unsatisfactory points. The settings were adequate, and the chorus sang well as a rule, there being but one place where it refused to keep the key. This was in the bridal procession in the second act. The manage-ment of the chorus was not as satisfactory as one could have wished, especially at the opening of the second act, where, in true Italian opera style, it lined up across the front of the stage, and sang to the first balcony. This is a piece of mismanage ment for which there does not seem to be any excuse, particularly in this place.

Mr. Damrosch had his orchestra in hand as usual. I did not notice any departure from the usual smoothness and control which characterizes all of Mr. Damrosch's work, though I did notice his most common fault largely in evidencethat of making the orchestra lead the solo singers, and forcing their voices. Loudness is Mr. Damrosch's chief error in the management of his orchestra, and several times Frau Klafsky was obliged to force her voice, until it showed the forcing, to hold her own.

Of the principals. Herr Wilhelm Gru-

ning was the Lohengrin, and displayed a marvelous reserve power in his voice. His acting was satisfactory, but not great; but I have seldom heard finer work than was done by him in the last act, beginning with the "In fernem land," where Lohengrin describes the castle of the Grail. This was sung with most exquisite purity and feeling, and without any exaggeration of tone. The farewell to Elsa was cut, and the swan song followed immediately. This was most exquisitely done, and stamped Herr Gruning as one of the best of Lohengrins.

Frau Klafsky sang Ortrud well, and acted it better. Her work in the one great scene which Ortrud has, the opening to the second act, was superb, while her voice rings out with true dramatic force, though The ten lines which are all of Ortrud's part in the last act were delivered by Frau Klafsky with a force and strength that made the part prominent, even in that I cannot say that I like Fri. Gadski's Elsa. It was overshadowed by the Ortrud of Klafsky in last night's presentation. Frl. Gadski has a clear, pure voice, of considerable strength, which she uses judiciously. She has a fine presence and is a beautiful woman, but she lacks fire. While Elsa is an emotional part, yet there is a chance for a great deal of fire in it. To be sure Frl. Gadski made much of the great scene in the third act, but her acting at the last of that act was not nearly up to the standard which she set in the duet. And yet Frl. Gadski sang Elsa

I was not pleased with Popovici's Telramund in the first act, but I was imm pleased with the way in which he carried the part at the opening of the second. The accusation scene was cut, so that Telramund's part was rather short, but he made a good impression with it. His voice is a good impression with it, fresh, though not particularly forceful.

William Mertens sang the part of the her-ald well. It is not an easy part to sing, as it requires great strength and firmness of voice. It does not require any histrionic talent whatever, however, and so, Mr. Mertens made a great success of it, for he really has a magnificent voice.

Herr Behrens is, as a rule, thoroughly reliable, and his King Henry was reliable, but not uncommonly good. This is a part where immense dignity and a good, even great voice, are the requisites, and while Herr Behrens has the dignity, yet his voice is not great, though there are few more reli-singers than he. On the whole, as I said in the beginning, it was a satisfactory performance of "Lo-hengrin," even the swan, for a wonder, working as it should, and on the strength of it people should see the other two per-formances. "Sieg. Tied" will be good. I have seen Alvary and Lange in it once be fore this year, and I know that Alvary's voice is as good as ever.

GARNSEY. The Social Side.

The Grand was packed to the doors with one of the most fashionable audience At-lanta has ever known and the production of "Lohengrin" was received with every evidence of enthusiasm.

Of course it was the correct thing to take in the opera and all society was there. The audience was well worth a study for it was such an audience as seldom is gathered together in any city—such an audience as Atlanta gave Patti and gave the brilliant Damrosch upon his former appearance here. when he came with his great orchestra. It was such an audience as only the great cities of the country can equal. The boxes were filled with beautiful women and the audience as a whole was one to remember. At the matines this afternoon "Siegfried" will be given and for the first time in Atwill be given and for the first time in At-lanta will be heard Herr Max Alvarv. the greatest fiving Siegfried, Frl. Kathari-na Klafsky will sing Brunnhilde, and this will be the last time she will sing here during this engagement.

The matinee will begin at 2 o'clock and Il should be in their seats at that time. The cast for "Siegfried" will be:

Fafner. Herr Julius von Pulitz
Forest Bird. Fri. Mina Schilling At night "Tannhauser" will be given, and for the first time Herr Barron Berthald will be heard in Atlanta, he singing "Tannhauser," and Frl, Johanna Gadski will sing Elizabeth. As there will be no delay tonight, as there was last night, on account of the delay of the special train, the overture will begin promptly at 7:45, and there should be no disturbance by late comers. The cast for "Tannhauser" will be:

Papinta! Papinta! Papinta! Papinta was back at the Trocadero last night, and she received an enthusiastic night, and she received an enthusiastic ovation from the large audience. This is the first time she has been out of bed since her accident over a week ago, and she deserves great credit for her bravery in venturing on the stage again so soon. LIFE OF CAPT. HARRY JACKSON.

BRILLIANT CAREER OF A MAN WITH MANY SHINING DEEDS.

He Went to War as a Beardless Boy and Fought Gallantly for the Stars and Bars.

To sketch the life of gallant Captain Harry Jackson from the days of childhood, when he first learned to lisp his good-night prayer at the altar of his mother's knee, through the cloudy days when a beardless boy he buttoned on the gray jacket, shouldered his musket and marched off to the scene of war amid the hills of northern Virginia, through the years of his marvelous career as a gifted lawyer with matchless manner of high-born chivalry and pleasing cordiality, down to the moment he closed his eyes to the world he adorned-to sketch the life of such a man is to bedeck a bright page with the record of brilliant achievements. Captain Harry Jackson was an extraor-linary man. This truth shone out in his very bearing; in all he ever did.

He was a scion of one of the grandest old families in the south of olden times, being a son of General and Mrs. Henry R. Jackson, of Savannah. Captain Jackson's mother was, before her marriage to Gen-eral Jackson, Miss Cornelia A. Davenport, Born of such parentage on July 15, 1845 it is easy to see that the life of Captain Jackson was pitched under such environments to prove picturesque and full of ng into the full fruition of its history and not long before the eruption of civil war burst upon it with such frightful fury. General and Mrs. Jackson reveled in a delightful southern home, which was blessed with the family group of four chil-These were Harry Jackson, Howell

Cobb Jackson, now of this city; Daven-port Jackson, who died a few years ago, and Cornella Jackson, now Mrs. Pope Barrow, of Savannah. Young Harry Jackson was sent to school in Savannah after the leath of his mother, which occurred when he was just eight years old. He remained in the schools of Savannah until his dis-tinguished father took him to Europe with him when he went as minister to Austria for the United States. He remained in Vienna only a year, however, his father taking him to a boarding school near ondon in 1854.

When General Jackson came home from Europe he left his son Harry there at the school in the neighborhood of London, but after a year there the youth was brought back to America and was placed in the private school of Mr. William H. Russell, at New Haven. Here he began to take on the broader education of higher earning, and after a few years at school in Savannah subsequently he was well edu-cated without the finish of a collegiate the civil war began and was appointed a cadet in the regular confederate army. He went off to the ranks of the army in northwestern Virginia, a mere boy. He was under his father's direction, howsounding along the South Carolina coast that General Jackson was ordered to report to Garnett, who was fronting Mc-Clellan in Virginia. By the time Gen-eral Jackson reached the scene Garnett was driven back and General Jackson was ordered to take charge of the scattered

This position the distinguished warrior held until he was chosen major general of the state troops to guard the Georgia coast. He came back, but left his gallant young son, Harry, in the ranks of the army in Virginia. He was ordered to assume the duties of special drill maste to assume the duties of special drill master to drill the novitiate soldiers who were then volunteering to enter the service of the confederacy. When his father left him in Virginia he was ordered to report to General A. R. Lawton, who had gone to the front in command of many brave soldiers who were first to voluntee in southern Georgia. Harry Jackson, the youthful soldier, was in many of the dangerous conflicts, and when in one of the most disastrous engagements his brave general fell wounded on the field it was young Jackson who was first at his side and aided him in retiring from the scene of levastation and death.

Subsequently Harry Jackson was made adjutant general in the confederate army and served under General A. H. Colquitt. who afterwards became governor of Ge ria and who was until his late death United States senator from this state.

Those who were with Captain Jackson in the many battles he fought through declare that there never was a braver oung soldier boy in all the world. He never was afraid of the foe and seemed to be itterly indifferent to the danger of war. His bravery and courage at times amounted to nothing short of boyish folly, so daring was he in his movements on the

He Enters the Law School.

After the war young Jackson entered the law school, which is a branch of the State university at Athens, and which at that time was under the direction of the late Chief Justice Lumpkin. Judge Lumpkin found him to be one of the brightest youths he ever had under his guidance in the study of law and declared on many oc-casions that his future was bright.

Captain Jackson was admitted to the bar on the recognition of his diploma before he was twenty-one years of age. He came to Atlanta to practice at the bar in 1886, establishing his first law office here. He never left Atlanta from that day to live or to pursue the practice of his chosen pr fession.

In 1867 Captain Jackson wedded Miss Sarah A. Cobb, daughter of General Thomas R. R. Cobb, of Athens. He was not long in establishing himself in the bar of Geor-

He was a member of the legislature later and served with signal ability in the role of a lawmaker at a time when there was great work for the lawmakers to do.

Captain Jackson's many friends in Atlanta urged him to enter the race for congress from the Fifth Georgia district in 1882. He made an active campaign, en ountering Colonel N. J. Hammond as his adversary in the race. Colonel Hammond won the race, though it was by a close scratch that he did so, and Captain Jackson became conspicuous for his courageous and manly work for the party's candidate. His Life Work.

Captain Jackson's life has been for the building of his community. He has been closely identified with all the undertakings which have tended to the upbuilding of the city of Atlanta. He was one of the promoters of the Young Men's Library Association, and was president of the association for several terms. He built the Gate City Guard armory; he has done great service in many of the charitable undertakings which have characterized the great beneficent heart of Atlanta. He was an active mover in the work of getting the capital of Georgia established in At-

He was a member of the Central Presbyterian church and was a faithful and consistent Christian. His chief personal charm was his goodness of heart, and broad gen-erosity to all. His unswerving fidelity to friendship, his cordialty and personal magnetism won golden opinions in whatever company he was thrown.

In fine he was one of the strongest pillars in the great structure of Atlanta citizenship and a typical representative of the oldtime southern gentleman of high degree.

Nearly forty years ago Mr. Raphael Hirsch reached Marietta with his father, brothers and sisters, and there he passed many years of his life, each day adding friends to his name by his kind, manly treatment of all with whom he came in contact. His father was one of the first merchants of that place, and in the mercantile house which the elder Hirsch established the son who died yesterday and the Hirsches of Atlanta secured their early business train-ing. While his brothers left Marietta for Atlanta, where there was a wider field, Mr. Raphael Hirsch remained in Marietta and succeeded his father in business. He was careful, industrious and pleasant, and by his honesty and his devotion to his friends constructed a business and a friendship, the first of which lasted profitably through his life and the last of which will be pleasantly recalled.

SPECIAL JURY FOR FOREIGN EX. HIRITS FINISH THEIR WORK

Awards Will Be Made in a Few Days and the Exhibitors Will Be Given Medals.

The special jury of awards that has been in session for several days at the exposi-tion has completed its work and the report will in a few days be made an official document and the awards, as made by the jury, will probably not be changed.

The body was organized for the purpose of passing judgment on the merits of the foreign exhibits and was composed of dis-tinguished gentlemen who have had much experience in exposition matters. Those who composed the jury were Hon. C. A. Barratoni, vice president of the New York Chamber of Commerce; Mr. W. C. Schroeder, of Atlanta; Professor W. P. Wilson, of the Philadelphia museum, and the follow-ing members of the special board of exposition arbitrators: Messrs, M. Adler, R. B. Bullock, R. D. Spalding, W. L. Cosgrove and D. Woodward. Mr. L. DeGive and Mr. A. Riccio, both of Atlanta, were also members of the jury.

The foreign jury of awards was appoint ed by Chevalier A. Macchi, The work of the jury was brief, but very thorough, and out of the one hundred and sixty awards made it is more than likely that all will be made official. The awards will consist of gold and bronze medals and diplomas of honorable mention. The foreign exhibits were carefully inspected and their merits passed juagment upon. The gentlemer composing the jury have been identified in exposition work for many years and were thoroughly competent and efficient for the faithful performance of their duties. work of the jury has been concluded

LACK OF OUTSIDE SUPPORT

Closed the Market a Shade Lower Than Thursday-In Stocks Covering of Shorts Strengthened Prices.

New York, December 13:-There was an extensive covering in short contracts at the stock exchange today, particularly in the Industrials. Leather preferred was the special feature of the trading, and on dealings of nearly 60,000 shares jumped 51/8 per cent to 68. Keene brokers were conspicuous buyers of the stock and a number of big bears were compelled to cover at the advance. The rise in this specialty had but little influence on the other Industrials which ruled quiet throughout. Sugar sold up from 101% to 103, extra dividend 3 per cent. Chicago Gas was stronger and moved up to 69½ on the dismissal of the Levin receivership application by Judge Horton, of Chicago. The railway list was firmer, and there was some good buying of the higher priced issues for investment account. New York Central rose to 1004, Michigan Cen-tral to 102 and Consolidated Gas to 161½. Burlington and Quincy was the weak spot and fell to 45% regular. At one time the stock was offered at 44% seller 60 days. The stock was absolutely without support, the official denial of the receivership stories having fallen flat. The Anthracite Coalers were lower for Reading and Jersey Central, the refusal of the Delaware and Hudson to agree to the method of restricting the output for January, having led to selling for both accounts. London was a buyer early, the declaration of a dividend of Denver and Rio Grande preferred having had a good effect abroad. Pacific Mail sold up to 321/4 on the announcement that the Panama directors had authorized President Simmons to sign the agreement with the steamship company. In the inactive issues Bay State Gas rose 3 to 22% and Long Island Traction to 20. Hocking Coal was more active 3@34. Pittsburg and Western preferred fell 4½ per cent to 24½. Early Morning Gossip.

Dow, Jones & Co., New York. New York, December 13.—A leading for-eign house was the most conspicuous seller New York, December 13.—A leading foreign house was the most conspicuous seller of Louisville and Nashville yesterday, and as long as this foreign selling continues there is little disposition here to buy. The foreign markets, especially Paris, were flat all day yesterday, and private cables reported the closing out in that city of a large bull account which has been carried over from previous settlements. It is believed to be a fact that these failures in Paris have been of houses carrying more or less American securities. The steady pressure upon Louisville and Nashville from Paris indicates that this is one of the stocks held there among present weak houses. There is good borrowing demand for the stock, and brokers say it is in large part for those who have stocks to arrive from Europe. The condition of the property is reported especially satisfactory, and the earnings continue to increase.

The Atchison situation is reported more complicated than ever on pressure of committees for a settlement of claims. The new board, after holding its meeting yesterday at Topeka and electing officers, started for Chicago, where another meeting is to be held today or tomorrow to transact necessary business.

Sugar common and preferred and Manhattan books close today.

Trading in Sugar was essentially similar to that of the last few days. Traders think the manipulation is in the interest of sellers, and that the next important move in Sugar will be down. The importance of the German export bounty has been appreciated. To say that it is proposed to increase the bounty from 1.28 marks to 4 marks does not suggest as much as it does to say that the export bounty con German sugar is to be raised from about 30c per 100 pounds to 96c per 100 pounds. In other words, the German government centemplates helping the sugar refiner of Germany to sell sugar abroad and in the United States in particular to the extent of the protection afforded American refiners and compel either the loss of markets on material reduction in the price of refi extent of the protection antoreed American refiners and compel either the loss of markets on material reduction in the price of refined sugar.

The Kaifir market is irregular.

The advance in the market has been mostly covering. Sentiment on the Industrials is more bullish, and has been helped by the rise in Leather preferred, in which there has been some inside buying today.

Selling in Sugar is called good.

Baltimere and Ohio declined on the execution of a realizing order. There is understood to have been quite a large selling order in the stock for several days.

Efforts to bid up the Grangers have met fair supplies of stocks. London has been a small seller, partly on orders alleged to have come from Paris.

Part of the advance in United States Leather preferred has been due to the results of an inquiry lately made by a strong interest into the merits of the property. It was felt that if the stock had merit the large decline in the price made the stock cheap. The results of the indirty incicate that the business of the company is in good shape.

The Pacific Mail-Panama agreement has been signed and a meeting of the board has been called to ratify the action.

All of the coal companies except Delaware and Hudson have agreed to the three days working time each week. Much pressure is being brought to bear on Delaware and Hudson to make them agree.

Exchange is exactly at the specie point for London, but gives no profit to exporters. It is cheaper to send gold than to buy bills if remittances must be made. One firm has been meditating a shipment of $500,000 gold tomorrow, but it is not very likely to send any before next week. A good many irms expect to have orders to ship to Germany by the next steamer.

Closing Stock Review.

This feature was most pronounced in Leather preferred, which advanced about 4 per cent on manipulation credited to an operator active in Industrial operations. Tobacco was firmer at a small improvement and Sugar, selling ex-dividend, rose over 1 per cent after an early fall of ½ per cent.

The Industrial list in general was sympathetically helped by the sharp buige in Leather preferred.

Tennessee Coal rose over 1 per cent. The anthracite coal shares were wesker on the refusal of one important company to accept the proposition to restrict production. The test of the general railway list was firm with small changes.

The market closed irregular.

McIntyre & Wardwell's Cotton Letter.

New York, December 13.—The bulls had the news in their favor, and early in the day prices advanced 7 points. Liverpool was active and higher, the receipts were light, the continent was believed to be buying in Liverpool, southern markets were generally firm and local shorts and operators for a rise bought in the morning. Houston expects next week only 43,000 bales, against 83,000 for the same week last year, and only half as much tomorrow as on that day in 1893. Liverpool has been selling 12,000 and 15,000 bales per day on the spot, which is regarded as a phenomenal exhibit of activity and as bearing striking testimony to the fact that English spinners recognize the large falling off in the American yield this year. But it is a very narrow market, as has frequently been pointed out of late, and liquidation this afternoon and the absence of outside interest caused a reaction, which left the closing prices 2 points below the last quotations of yesterday, with the tome easy and the total sales 145,500 bales. The interior towns have received about 140,000 bales this week, against 159,372 last week and 207,000 last year. The interior stocks have gained during the week about 25,000 bales. The quantity brought into sight is estimate at 315,000, against 329,000 last week, 464,000 last year and 306,000 in 1892, the short crop year. The ports received today 34,-69, against 45,8988 last week and 72,165 last year. Total port receipts for the week are a little less than had been expected, being 228,464, against 23,157 last week and 342,127 last year. The interior arrivals for the week were about 5,000 bales less than some had estimated. Liverpool sold 12,000 on the spot at unchanged prices. Futures there advanced 2 points and closed quiet and steady. New Orleans advanced 5 points and then lost this and fell 1 to 2 points. The southern spot markets were generally steady or firm at unchanged prices with a moderate business. Spot prices here were advanced 1-16c withaut transactions. Manche The following is the range of cotton futures in New York today.

The Dry Goods Market. New York, December 13.—There is no show for complaint on the score of the weather prevailing just now, the conditions being just what are required to help along the reduction of stocks of seasonable goods in the hands of retailers and to clear the way for a fuller recognition by them of probable requirements for spring. In other respects the dry goods market furnishes little from which the manufacturers or their agents can draw any more rurals or their agents can draw any more encouragement than for some time past. The tone of the primary market is unalter-ed in all directions whether in cotton or

New York, December 13.—Foreign advices today were not as favorable as expected, in spite of the disposition abroad to look for spite of the disposition abroad to look for a further advance in prices, and our market was disappointed at the small improvement in Liverpool. The opening of our market reflected this disappointment, but the market has slowly improved on the general belief that we are approaching a period when the movement of the crop will be very light with the result of a better market.

This disposition is so general that it is dim-cult to find many who expect a decline in prices until more is known of the crop and the probabilities as to the situation in the east. Merchants as a rule are therefore content to wait further developments, while speculation as yet has not been attracted to the market, which is sustained by factors which are visible to every one. Our market declined during the afternoon on the local trade parting with their holdings on the lack of outside support. The amount of cotton coming into light promises to be 322,000 bales.

Riordan & Co.'s Cotton Letter.

New York, December 13.—(Special.)—The light interior movement helped prices somewhat and March, which opened at 8.40 and sold at 8.83 soon after the call, gradually advanced to 8.46, but the buying was chiefly by the room traders in anticipation of a higher closing, and these buyers finding outside support lacking in the last hour lost no time in dumping their holdings upon the narrow market, causing a sudden and unexpected decline. The close was easy, with March at 8.37@8.33. After the close, however, the demand improved and prices were a couple of points higher. Our confidence in the position of cotton is based on the developments seen from day to day demonstrating the extent of the crop shortage. We expect these developments to become more startling after the holidays and to justify the patient waiting of those who have been carrying cotton through all the ups and downs of the market. Crop brought into sight for the first thirteen days of December 607,080, against 855,830, 763,217 and 696,374. Comparisons in these reports are made up to the corresponding date last year, year before and in 1892, and not to the close of the corresponding weeks. Comparisons by weeks would take in 105 days of the season last year, 106 year before last and 107 in 1892, against only 104 days this year.

The Sun's Cotton Review.

New York, December 13.—Cotton. rose 1 point, lost ...is and declined 1 point, recovered this and advanced 7 points, lost this and closed 2 points lower for the day, and easy, with sales of 145,900 bales. easy, with sales of 145,990 bales.

Today's Features—It was a narrow trading market, and as far as the news was concerned one bulls had the advantage. Not only that, but prices early in the day were actually higher because of activity and strength in Liverpool, small receipts at the south and local buying. But it was a narrow, scalping market and liquidation later in the day caused a recession, which put prices slightly below the last figures of yesterday. Yet Liverpool sold 12,000 hales today and 75,000 for the week, making a total in a fortnight of 150,000 and in a month of about 300,000, which is certainly a remarkable record of activity theresomething, in fact, which is believed to be unparalleled within the same period of time in any previous season. The continent is buying in Liverpool, and if the bulls are not aggressive, neither are the tinent is buying in Liverpool, and if the bulls are not aggressive, neither are the hears. The receipts for the week, both at the ports and the interior towns, were rather smaller than had been expected. The total interior receipts fell about 5,000 bales below the estimate. In a word, most of the news was bullish, only it must be confessed that it was neutralized by the smallness of the speculation. The bears will watch the January crop movement very sharply. They run on the slightest larm and they will run even harder in January, 1892, when it was 556,000 bales. They profess to believe that January, 1896, will see a larger movement than this. If their belief is not confirmed then it is generally conceded that the crop estimate cantheir belief is not confirmed then it is generally conceded that the crop estimate cannot be reached. They estimate the crop at 7,250,000 bales and upward. The bulls say 6,350,000 to 6,750,000. The undertone is considered firm, for if speculators are not buying cotton manufacturers are buying it with avidity.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Declined Another Fraction on

Selling of Long Property. Chicago, December 13.—The price of wheat declined today under the weight of selling out of long property. A heavy line was sold at the opening, and sales throughout the day were also made by the late man-ager of the suspended firm of Kennett. ager of the suspended limbor that the Hopkins & Co., the trade probably being for the account of clients of that house. The entire session was barren of news. May wheat opened from 61%@61c., declined to 60%@61½c., closing 60½c., ½c. under yesterday. Cash wheat was steady to ½c. per day. Cash wheat was bushel lower.

Corn—The weakness of wheat occasioned depreciations with a consequent depreciation. Corn—The weakness of wheat occasioned selling of corn, with a consequent depreciation in values. The volume of business was not large, and the character of the trade was purely local. May corn opened at 28%c., declined to 28%@28½c., closing at 28½c, bld, ½c. under yesterday. Cash corn was ½@½c, per bushel lower.

Nothing calculated to help oats in the face of a declining wheat market was to hand and through force of habit or of sympathy followed the course of the finer grain. Trading attracted no particular attention and was devoid of any feature worthy of special mention. May oats closed ½c. under yesterday. Cash oats were easy.

Acc. under yesterday. Cash oats were easy.
Provisions—The disposition in product was to buy rather than sell this morning. Outside orders were generally on that line, and shorts taking the hint did likewise. A fair business was transacted, out no really significant trading was brought out. The firmness was generally maintained throughout the session. May pork closed 5c. higher; May lard and ribs, each 2½c. higher.

Lamson Bros. & Co.'s Grain Letter.

Chicago, December 14.—Under liberal offerings and a weaker cash situation, the wheat market has ruled weak and suffered a decline of $60 form yesterday's closing. Large selling by a commission house has been a consplctious feature. Offerings early were all taken care of by shorts, among whem were two large professionals who were sellers yesterday on a considerable scale. This buying steadled the market for the time being, but proved inadequate to the supply which later became quite large, scalpers and longs joining in the selling. As noted in our letter yesterday, there is not the brisk demand for cash wheat as formerly. It appears quite evident that farmers are more willing sellers, which makes it possible for millers to withdraw their orders from Chicago, and, although the premium for No. 2 red has not been modified here, remaining at 1½½2c over May, the price in St. Louis was weak. There seemed to be very little inquiry in this market today, and we hear of no important transactions. This was the discouraging feature to longs, who based their hopes on the belief that farmers, under prevailing circumstances, would be loth to part with their holdings, especially at this time. There was further news regarding the Argentine crop, the exportable surplus being placed at 50,000,000 bushels, most of which was flour. Northwest receipts were larger than a week before, being 970 cars, against 936. Closing cables quoted Liverpool 4d lower, Paris 10 centimes higher, Berlin and Antwerp unchanged. Consels closed 4d higher, and the Turkish crisis seems to be very much modified. New York early reported thirty-five loads yesterday for export, but this has not been confirmed. The close was weak at about the lowest point of the day.

Coarse grains, like wheat, were heavy, corn making a new low record, May selling as low as 23%628½c. Increased receipts and selling by the country were the causes. Provisions were firm early on the light run of hogs and outside buying, but on the advance packers w Lamson Bros. & Co.'s Grain Letter.

MR. FLEMING REPLIES

The Speaker Furnishes an Answer to Major Frank Callaway.

GIVES HIS SIDE OF THE CASE

Says Major Callaway Withdrew the Remark Made Which Applied to the House.

Speaker W. H. Fleming has a reply to the communication from Major Frank Callaway, private secretary to the governor, published in yesterday's Constitu He read the article in the morning's paper and during the afternoon prepared a reply. He is still in the city, winding up his official business, but will leave for Augusta tonight. His reply to Major Callaway is as fol-

Editor Constitution-The communica tion which you published this morning from Major Callaway, the governor's private secretary, seems to require some answer from me. I shall discharge that disagreeable duty with thorough good temper, but with outspoken candor.

"I have acted a friendly part toward Major Callaway in shielding him from the consequences of his first indiscretion in sending a disrespectful message to the house of representatives over which I had the honor to preside, but now that he has given an interview to 'ine Commercial and written a letter to your paper, in both of which he seeks to shift the issue away from the true point, he must suomit to a correct statement of the facts from me, even though that statement may add to the embarrassment of his present position.

The facts are as follows: "The facts are as follows:
"On Monday last when the house was closely engaged on a hotly contested bill which had been killed but reconsidered, and when every minute of time was valuable as that was the last day on which house bills could possibly be passed, I was notified privately by the doorkeeper that Mr. Cahaway was present and desired to deliver a message from the governor. A point of order involving an intricate question of parliamentary law was raised on the bill. I told the doorkeeper to announce the governor's meswas raised on the bill. I told the door-keeper to announce the governor's mes-sage just as soon as that particular busi-ness was finished. In a few minutes I gave my decision on the point of order. An appeal was taken therefrom and im-mediately after the vote was taken over-ruling the appeal I directed the doorkeeper to present the messenger from the gov-ernor, even though at that instant a num-ber of members were asking for recogni-tion to try to save bills in which they were interested.

"On being informed that Mr. Callaway ber of members were asking for recognition to try to save bills in which they were interested.

"On being informed that Mr. Callaway had left the hall, I sent a page down to the executive offices to notify Mr. Callaway had left the hall, I sent a page down to the executive offices to notify Mr. Callaway had the house was ready to receive the message from the governor. In a few minutes the page returned, saying that Mr. Callaway said, "Tell the whole business to go to the devil with his compliments.' I expressed surprise, and asked the page if he was not mistaken, but he insisted that Mr. Callaway said it.

"Thinking that Mr. Callaway had spoken in a fit of temper and that he did not really intend to be disrespectful to the house, I wrote him a polite note saying that I had received his message, etc., and asked, 'Do you really desire me to deliver your message to the house? If so, I will comply with your wishes?"

"In a short while he sent me a written reply addressed to me as 'Speaker of the House,' and reading, 'Dear Sir: Since my language was unparliamentary, I desire to witidraw it,' the rest of the letter being a protest against having to wait, etc. Soon after that he came to my desk and asked my assistance or co-operation in keeping the matter out of the papers, and I readily assented, telling him I supposed he had simply acted from hasty temper.

"The affair soon became known in the house, and one of the newspaper reporters asked me to give him the facts for publication. I declined, as it would embarrass Mr. Callaway. Several members also spoke to me about it and wanted me to present the matter to the house, expressing a purpose to censure Mr. Callaway by resolution, but I declined, and when his written withdrawal of the offensive language was received, I was still more gratified that I had done Mr. Callaway that friendly service.

"I supposed the unpleasant matter was ended but on Wednesday morning a rely service.

"I supposed the unpleasant matter was ended, but on Wednesday morning a reporter of The Commercial came to my desk and asked for an interview giving my side, and saying he already had a state-ended, but on Wednesday morning a reporter of The Commercial came to my desk and asked for an interview giving my side, and saying he already had a statement from Mr. Callaway or had seen him with a view of getting one. I again declined, saying I did not desire to injure Mr. Callaway, and that he had withdrawn his language and the whole matter was amicably settled.

"After this action on my part, you can imagine my surprise on reading in The Commercial of that afternoon an authorized interview with Mr. Callaway, containing a number of spiteful flings at me and the following declaration: 'I sent him word that he could go to the devil. I understand that the speaker tried to shift my message from himself to the legislature, but I wish to state that the matter was entirely a personal one between he and myself.' Waiving the grammatical blunder here (for he should have written him and myself, not 'he and myself') this raises squarely the issue of whether Mr. Callaway really sent his disrespectful message to the house or to me personally. It was the first intimation I had of any ill will on his part toward me or of any intention on his part to confine his language to me and to exclude the members of the house therefrom.

"At this pcint I will indulge in no epithets, but will simply present he cyidence and let the facts speak for themselves:

"I. The page made affidavit in the following words: 'I told Mr. Callaway and he answered, "Go and tell the whole business to go to hell with my compliments." I returned to the house and told Mr. Fleming what Mr. Callaway said, except I did not tell him Mr. Callaway said, "Go to hell," but "Go to the devil."

"This 'ten-year-old boy' could scarcely have coined the phrase 'tell the whole business,' and substituted it for 'tell Speaker Fleming.' Besides he could have had no motive to misrepresent, and the messenger of the house, Mr. J. R. Smith, assures me that this little page is one of his brightest boys, entirely truthful and reliable.

"Z. Mr. Callaway's written answer to my note

"2. Mr. Callaway's written answer to my "2. Mr. Callaway's written answer to my note says: 'Since my language was anparliamentary, I withdraw it.' How could his language be 'unparliamentary,' if intended for me personally? I am no parliament in any sense of that word. That was the time of all others when he should have made a personal application of his words.

"3. When he came to my desk to ask my co-operation in keeping the incident out of the papers he did not intimate that his words were personal to me. That was another good time to make the distinction. Besides, why desire on Monday to suppress the publication of a personal affront, which he proclaims through the newspapers with such evident gusto on Wednesday and Friday?

which he proclaims through the newspapers with such evident gusto on Wednesday and Friday? "4. Fortunately the little page has another witness to corroborate him. Mr. Howard Williams, one of the staff of The Atlanta Journal, tells me that on Monday after the incident Mr. Callaway came to him and asked him to suppress publication of the matter, and remarked that he had sent word back for all of them to go to hell, and that Speaker Fleming had withheld any mention of it to the house, or words to that effect. Mr. Williams this morning promised to send me a written statement of his conversation with me covering what Mr. Callaway told him. That statement has not been received at the time I am now writing—5:30 p. m.—but I have no doubt it will be forthcoming.

"I submit that these facts make out a clear case of lapse of memory on the part of Major Callaway. Anger is not conducive to clear recollection.

"From the tone of Major Callaway's inof Major Callaway. Anger is not conducive to clear recollection.

"From the tone of Major Callaway's in-terviews and also from reports made to me of some cursing he indulged in at the house before or after adjournment on Wednesday night, I must infer that he thinks

Wednesday night, I must infer that he thinks I have been somewhat remiss in not accepting as a personal insult 'calling for redress the message he sent by the page. But under the circumstances I do not think the words 'go to the devil,' or 'go to hell,' even if sent to me personally, are sufficient cause for the shedding of blood or the tearing of hair. If I am to construe 'them as a request, my reply is that I think the request unreasonable and I decline to comply. If I am to contrue them as a command, my reply is that I deny his authority and I refuse to that I deny his authority and I refuse to the contract the man and the sufficient to the contract that I deny his authority and I refuse to the contract the man as a coman equest, my reply is that I think the request unreasonable and I decline to comply. If I am to contrue them as a command, my reply is that I deny his authority, and I refuse to obey.

"Now, in making a statement of the facts of this matter to the house just before adjournment I did Mr. Callaway no injustice. He had already been quoted in his interview, else no further mention would have been made of it, and in my statement I gave his side also to the extent of saying that he claimed the page was mistaken. Furthermore, my giving the real facts to the house was entirely within the bounds of propriety, especially in view of the rumors that were being circulated. It was a question of privilege affecting myself and all other members. My own judgment was clear in the matter, but it was backed up by the judgments of others who held that I owed it to the house as well as to myself to make it. I think I acted magnanimously to the last with Mr. Callaway, for I begged the house to give him a hearing through his friend and mine, Mr. Rockwell, of Chatham, and it was at my special request that no entry of the affair was made on the official records.

"Mr. Callaway insinuates broadly that I instigated a movement (which collapsed) on Wednesday night to have a resolution passed censuring him. The real truth is some members wanted to do that very thing and it was my personal request to the contrary that prevented it. His feeling against me is strange and peculiar. I have done him no wrong. On the contrary, I have protected him continuously.

"I can well understand Mr. Callaway's anger at my making that statement to the house, not one single item of which he can anger at my making that statement to the house, not one single item of which he car house, not one single item of which he can disprove.

"Of course if I remained silent the members would leave for home with the impression that he had really not been offensive to them, the 174 men, but only to the speaker, the one hundred and seventy-fifth man. The politics, if any, in this attempt to shift the offensive language to me alone was in the ratio of 174 to 1. When I gave the house the facts the 'move' was completely checkmated. Hinc illae lachrymae!

"There are some other minor matters I would like to notice, but this letter has already grown too long.

"It only remains for me to say that such a thing as showing discourtesy to the executive of the state never once entered my mind. His messenger was never intentionally delayed beyond what the exigencies of the situation manded. Mr. Callaway's statement in Commercial that he had lost almost tea days by such delays' is ridiculous in view of the fact that I have ascertained by actual count he brought to the hand diversible only ridiculous in view of the fact that I have a sacertained by actual count he brought to the house during the entire session only about twelve messages. No complaint of any general delay had ever been brought to my attention. I made no possible discrimination between the governor's messenger and the senate's messenger, and surely no one will accuse me of discourtesy to the senate. o the senate.

"The fact is that ever since my election

"The fact is that ever since my election as speaker I have been on the alert to observe the most scrupulous courtesy toward the governor in order that men like Major Callaway might have no possible excuse for complaint. I challenge any one to point out an instance where I have failed in that respect,

"I have no iff-will toward Mr. Callaway. I would not harm a hair of his head. I have simply exercised my right of self-defense. WILLIAM H. FLEMING. "Atlanta, Ga., December 13, 1895."

Son of the War Lieutenant Governor of the Old Dominion Here. Hon. A. I. Montague, United States dis-rict attorney for the northern district of Virginia, is in Atlanta. In the Old Dominion there are few figure more prominent than Judge Montague and still fewer public men about whom so much interest cluster.

Just as the late war opened democracy and whiggism still existed in Virginia and the race for governor was on between the two parties. Hon. John Letcher was the nominee of the democratic party with Judge Montague's father, Hon. Robert L. Montague, on the ticket as lieutenant gover nor, while the whig party presented Hon. William L. Goggin, one of the most prominent and successful men of the state. Gov ernor Letcher was quite ill during most of the campaign and the speaking, at least the greater part of it, devolved upon the gentleman second on the ticket, Judge Montague. In that campaign he distinguished himself as a political orator and did much for the a political orator and did much for the ccessful campaign of the democratic

Judge Montague, like his father, has filled many positions of honor and trust in Vir ginia and as United States district attorney for the northern district of Virginia is regarded by the governor as one of its best men. He is the guest of Dr. G. G. Roy, on Ellis street.

Will Preach Two Sermons in the City Tomorrow Morning and Night.

Rev. George Batchelor, of Cambridge, Mass., the general secretary and chier executive of the American Unitarian Association, is in town. He is the guest of Mrs. Thomas P. Ivy, on Piedmont avenue. On Thursday morning he will preach in the Church of Our Father, on Church street near Peachtree, and in the evening he will address a union meeting in the same place. "Agreements of Christendom" will be his subject in the morning. Those who know his thorough and interesting way of treating the subjects he handles will be sure to attend these serrainties will be sure to attend these services. Mr. Batchelor's address at the recent national conference at Washington on the present condition and prospects of the Unitarian church made a strong impression and was freely and widely reported in the papers of the whole country.

Oyster Canning at Brunswick. Brunswick, Ga., December 13.—(Special.) The dyster canning factory will resume operations early in January. Mr. A. H. operations early in January. Mr. A. H. Lane, one of the principal owners, announces this fact and states further that the output will be larger this season than ever before. Returns from goods shipped during the past twelve months are favorable and have warranted the owners in spending a large sum for additional improvements. The few cold days recently will have a beneficial effect in fattening the bivaives, and three weeks more of such weather will put them in prime condition for canning. Few people who eat oysters know that cold weather fattens them quickly and immensely, but it is a fact nevertheless.

High Testimonial from the Members of the Bar to the Retiring

The dinner given complimentary to Judge Howard Van Epps by his admiring friends at the Capital City Club night before last was a most fitting testimonial of the high esteem in which the judge is held by the members of the legal profession.

It was a gathering of Atlanta's most brilliant legal lights that graced the festive board. The dinner was one which well displayed the art of the chef. To the accompaniment of soft music, the following guests seated themselves around the heard: guests seated themselves around the board: Judge Howard Van Epps, J. J. Spalding, C. J. T. Hopkins, L. F. Mr. J. J. Spalding took the role of toastmaster and introduced each speaker in a most complimentary and witty way.

Judge Van Epps's speech was the gem of the evening. He said that he did not of the evening. He said that he did not think he would ever grow so old as to not vividly recall this occasion. "It is unusual," continued he, "in one re-spect, for the bar over which a judge has presided for more than a decade to assemble to do him honor on his retiring from public life. It can be accepted as a simple expression of esteem and affection into which no motive of selfseeking can possibly enter. Selfishness has no concern with a discrowned king. It is this thought which makes this oc-casion one of grateful significance. My knowledge can no more help and my ignorance no more harm you in your cases. "I can say tonight plainly and directly into the ears of my professional brethren that I have taken no account of any litito the coupt. When I acted mistakenly was because the light was dim and the way dubious or because of defects of my own vision. "In point of fact, gentlemen, there is no higher or holier function that men are called on in the complicated relations of our social life to exercise than the administrasocial life to exercise than the administra-tion of justice. Judges are vice servants of God Himself. They exercise a part of the divine prerogative and have the re-peated sanction of our beloved Savior and of inspiration in every form."

THE SATURDAY NIGHT CLUB.

The Venezuelan Question To Be Discussed Tonight by That Club. The question for discussion at the Saturday Night Club meeting tonight is: "Resolved, That the United States government should insist, by force of arms if necessary, that the Venezuela boundary dispute should be submitted to arbitration."

Mr. J. R. Nutting and Mr. Hugh Dorsey will champion the affirmative and Mr. J. W. Austin and Mr. Sheppard Bryan will uphold the negative.

This is one of the livest questions before the country and the public will await anxiously its settlement by the club tonight.

The club meets at 8 o'clock at the Young Men's Library hall, corner Marietta and streets. The public generally is in-

HAVE YOU A GIRL IN JEFFERSON The Telephone Line Was Completed

Yesterday.

Another city has been added to the growing list of places connected with Atlanta by telephone. Jefferson, Ga., was calling up the outside world last night and receiving congratulations upon the completion of the telephone line to that place. The line was opened at 6 o'clock yesterday afternoon and in a few minutes the people of Jeffer-son were communicating with Atlanta, Athens, Madison and Intermediate points. Jefferson is eighteen miles east of Athens and the people were greatly rejoiced when the telephone line was finished.

Mr. Will Smith, of Jefferson, called up The Constitution yesterday afternoon and sent the first message over the new line.

HE IS IMPROVING.

Mr. Robert McNeally, at the Grady Hospital Is Better.

Mr. Robert McNeally, the operative at the Ware furniture factory who was so seriously injured four days age by being tossed ly injured four days ago by being tossed around in the belting, is much better and Dr. Brewster, superintendent of the Grady hospital, is now hopeful of his recovery.

Mr. McNeally is yet quite low and there is no certainty about the result. He is one of the most popular young working men in the city and no greater evidence of that could be shown than the many calls made every day at the hospital to see him. Very few of those who call, however, are allowed to see him on account of his condition.

Rothery, of Diamond Distinction, Escaped from Prison Yesterday.

In a Room, an Open Window, an Ab Guard, Explains It All.

GOOD TREATMENT WAS THE CAUSE OF

The Alleged Diamond Crook Arrested for the Freeman Robbery Escaped, but Was Captured.

H. W. Rothery, the man who is suspected of being one of two who robbed Freeman's jewelry store last Wednesday afternoon. escaped from the station house early yes terday morning and succeeded in reaching Marietta before being overtaken and captured. He was arrested at that place when about to board a train for the north Rothery was confined in the chief of detective's office on the third floor of the building, and by that fact his escape was He was supposed to be under guard, but from the smooth manner in which he made his escape it seems that such was not the case. He departed some time before 5 o'clock yesterday morning by tumping on the roof of a building adjoin-

Rothery was brought back from Marietta last night. This time he was securely lodged in a cell in the prison proper and it is not likely that another golden opportunity to escape will be afforded him. Policeman W. A. Wright, a brother of Chief of Detectives Wright, was ordered to guard Rothery, and on account of the prisoner's e the officer is now on the suspended It is likely that he will have difficulty in satisfactorily explaining the escape to the board of commissioners.

Officer Wright Suspended.

Chief Connolly took immediate action in the matter. When be learned of the remarkable escape he issued an order suspending Officer Wright from duty, declaring that the escape resulted from gross care-lessness on the part of Officer Wright. Every effort was made to apprehend the es-cape during the day and much consterna-tion prevailed in the detective department, which department had charge of the case against Rothery. It was at the instance of the detectives that Rothery was first placed in the detectives' room and every member of that department scoured the

It Leaked Out Anyhow.

Rothery's confinement in the room up stairs was told of in yesterday's Constitu-tion. He was comfortably situated having a cot and other conveniences and comforts at hand. He was first placed in the room in an effort to keep the fact of his arrest from becoming known and no record was made of the arrest until eighteen hours after it was made, although the fact of the arrest was given in The Constitution the following morning.

The failure of the arresting officers to have Rothery's name registered on the dockets at the station house brought about an investigation and the issuance of an order subject by Chairman Johnson, of ice board, yesterday

Mr. Johnson Takes a Hand. Mr. Johnson stated in yesterday's Constitution that he would issue such an order ecessary and after conferring with Attorney Anderson about the matter Chief Connolly was instructed to enforce the rules of the department and ordinances of the city as to the registration of prison ers when arrested The city attorney and Chairman Johnson, of the board, contend that the laws require the stationhouse ers to docket the names of all per sons arrested and the fallure of the resting officers to give in Rothery's name for registration will cause them to be re-quired to explain why they violated the

Another Jenkins Affair.

Chief Connolly takes the same view the matter, stating that he instructed the department to give the names of all men arrested to the stationhouse keepers. The chief says that at the time of the memorable Jenkins case, in which Jenkins was stowed away in the detectives' office in the same manner as was Rothery-without his name being docketed-he instructed Chief Wright to instruct his men to turn all prisoners over to the stationhouse keepers when arrested. He told Chief Wright yesterday that he would be held responsible for the failure of his men to Why He Left the Prison.

Rothery says that he simply took advantage of the opportunity to leave the prison. He says that he had no desire to escape through the fear of prosecution here but simply left as would be natural for any man to do under the same circumstances.
He declined to tell of the manner of his escape, but it seems that he left his room of confinement while his guard was outside in the hall.

Wright in the Hall. At midnight yesterday morning Officer Wright was detailed to guard Rothery for the remainder of the night and until noon yesterday. Some time after mid-night Captain Jordan went up stairs and found Officer Wright sitting outside of the om in the hall. He looked in and saw Rothery on his cot all right. Before leav-ing Captain Jordan told Officer Wright to Shortly, before 5 o'clock Officer Wright rushed down stairs and reported that Rothery was gone. The alarm was quickly given and several officers searched the vicinity of the prison without finding any trace of the missing man. It was concluded that he went through a window and jumped down several feet on the roof of the two-story brick building next to the station house, escaping to a wagonyard in the rear of the building.

Captured in Marietta.

Chiefs Connolly and Wright were notified of the escape by telephone and they soon reached police headquarters and directed the search for Rothery. All of the dete tives and mounted policemen were put to work on the case and the city and county was scoured for the much wanted man. Detectives Tysor and Ivy set out toward Bolton and after walking over a large sec-tion of country learned that Rothery had been seen going toward Marietta. The detectives boarded a train for Marietta in the afternoon and as they stepped off the train Rothery started to step on it, he having a ticket for Cartersville in his procedet. Rothery was taken charge of and brought to Atlanta by the detectives.

No Evidence Against Him.

Chief Connolly and Chief Wright stated resterday that the strongest circumstance against Rothery is the fact that he escaped and attempted to get away. They admit hat there is no evidence against the man except the circumstance that he was un doubtedly in Freeman's store and looked at some jewelry about the time of the robery. It is said that had Rothery not attempted to get away he might have been released for the want of evidence, and he may yet find his liberty on that account.

What Chief Connolly Says. "The Constitution has the matter down right today," said Chief Connolly yesterday before it was known that Rothery had been captured. "We had no direct evidenc against him and he would probably hav been released. The fact that he escaped is the strongest evidence against him, but not withstanding that fact, I hope that Rothery vill be captured. The escape was absolute ly inexcusable and there is no question as to the carelessness of Officer Wright. He was placed as a guard over Rothery and should have kept a watch on him instead of remaining in the hall, contrary to Captain Jordan's order.

Names Must Be Docketed. "It is the rule of the department that the names of all persons arrested be given the stationhouse keepers and the prisoners locked up in the cells unless consent is given for them to be guarded about the building. The names must be given in all cases and the detectives will be held responsible for the violation of the rules and laws in this case. I gave my consent for Rothery to be guarded in the detectives Rothery to be guarded in the detectives' office Wednesday night, but I thought that louse keeper on duty to be docketed. I have allowed prisoners to be guarded about the building in the past and will do so in the future if I see proper, so long as the pris-oners pay for the guard, but the name of every man must be docketed in future."

Believes Rothery Guilty. Mr. Freeman was seen yesterday and when asked about the robbery said that he had lost several hundred dollars' worth of diamonds and jewelry. strongly believed that Rothery and the man who came in the store with himand that he regretted that Rothery 'had been allowed to escape

How It Happened.

"The two men came in the store when we were all very busy," said Mr. Freeman. "One of them asked for Mr. Anderson, one of my clerks, the man saying that he knew Mr. Anderson. Rothery and the other man, Dale, said that they wished to look at some jewelry and Mr. Anderson waited on them. Dale said that he knew Mr. Anderson, claiming to have met him at a Kimball house ball recently. I noticed something unusual about the men and my suspicion was aroused by their conduct. The men showed a roll of money and made considerable display of it, seeming to be doing so for the purpose of making the impression that they wished to make a big purchase.

The Diamonds Were Missing. "I watched the men very closely, keeping my eye on them every minute I had time.

Just as soon as they left I went to the diamond trays and examined them, finding that a certain line pin was missing. I called Mr. Anderson and when the trays were thoroughly examined we discovered that several nundred dollars' worth of valuable diamonds and pins had been stolen. As soon as possible we reported the matter to the police and in an hour after the robbery myself and Mr. Anderson and the detectives were looking for the two men about the depot and hotels. At the depot we found Rothery and when he was approached he attempted to cover his face with his hand."

Will Fight the Case. Rothery said last night that he would secure an attorney and fight for his liberty. He said that he had no connection with the robbery and would be able to exonorate

Inself in time.

The arresting officers say that Rothery registered at a hotel in Marietta under the name of C. H. Lord, of Nashville. He had been in Marietta several hours, spending the time walking about the place waiting for the north-bound train.

Mr. Stewart F. Woodson, as president of the Chamber of Commerce, has issued the following call to the people of the city:

"A movement having been inaugurated for a children's Christmas festival at the exposition grounds on December 18th, and a part of the programme being the bestowal upon the poor and the unfortunate of gifts from the people and the distribution of presents to the orphans, the necessity has arisen for calling of a mass meeting of the good people of Atlanta, who have never failed to respond to charity's noble call.

"As there is no one authorized to call such a meeting, it has been suggested that I do so as president of the Chamber of Commerce. I therefore earnestly request every citizen of Atlanta who wishes to aid in this most worthy cause to meet at the Chamber of Commerce hall Saturday, December 14th, at 12 o'clock. No money will be asked for and no subscriptions will be taken. The meeting will be merely to discuss the movement and see what should be done.

BOYS IN THE FORUM

The Debating Society af the Boy's High School Hold Forth.

CLOSING DEBATE YESTERDAY

Discussed the Question as to the Educational Qualification of Voters. An Interesting Debate.

The pupils of the Boys' High school held their annual debate yesterday morning at the Young Men's Christian Association hall. A large audience filled the hall and they were not disappointed. The manner in which the boys talked on their subjects speaks well for the debating society of that school and speaks well for the school in

The debaters were members of the Altiphronian Literary and Debating Society, which has been organized for several years. The subject of debate yesterday was, "Recolved, That the elective franchise should be based upon an educational and property qualification." Some of the best young orators of the school were chosen to take the affirmative and negative of the important and far-reaching question. Those who spoke on the affirmative side were: Leonard Haas, leader; Stiles Hopkins, Frank Merrill and Melson Lane. Negative, Eugene C. Brittain, leader; Emile Breitenbucher, Lipman Picard and Austin H. Cole. It was their annual debate and the boys had well prepared their speeches. They did credit to themselves and to the Boys' High school of Atlanta. The recitations in declamation came first and then the debate. The recitations were in the following order: "The Conquered Banner"-Archie Little,

"An Appeal for Starving Ireland"-Paul McDonald, first grade A.
"An Appeal to Arms"-Earle Moore,

second grade B. "Mississippi Contested Election"—William A. Haygood, Jr., second grade A. Welcome to Chicago"-Milton Hirsch, senior class. The recitations were loudly cheered and were among the most pleasing features of the annual entertainment.

The Speeches. The first speaker was Leonard Haas, leader, for the affirmative. Master Leonard took the position that the country would be in safer hands were it in the hands of the educated and property owners exclusively; that being educated and property owners they would run the affairs of the country so as to protect their property and if one man's property was protected all the property would be protected and the great end of this government would be accomplished.

Master Eugene C. Brittain, negative-Chances of corruption are always multiplied by complication of political machinery. Some of the wealthy and educated do not take enough of interest to go to the polls. It would be conducive to bad legislation. The fundamental principle of the govern-ment is that all men are created equal. All men are equally endowed with three things, viz.: Life, liberty and the pursuit of pleasure.

Master Stiles Hopkins, affirmative-The restriction of franchise as proposed would do away with much corruption. It would prevent ignorant men from ruling and would be a safeguard against revolutions. Master Emile Breitenbucher, negative—We cannot distribute the right of franchise too freely to protect the rights of the country. Mr. President, patriotism is found among the poor and uneducated as often as among the rich and learned. Look at those who were fighting for their country at our ages and could not get an education. Do you wish to restrict these from voting?

Master Frank Merrill, affirmative—To be poor is not always a crime, but to be ignorant in these days of public schools is in most instances a crime. Is it not right that we place a penalty upon ignorance? The restriction proposed would be a powerful incentive to education.

Master Lipman Picard, negative—The right to vote should not be allowed to only those who have education and money. This liberal form of government would soon cease to exist under such a law. It would make our government radical. Would breed riot, socialism and anarchy. If such a law was enacted we might as well place mourn-ing on Liberty bell, for liberty would be Master Melson Lane, affirmative-Shall suffrage be uniform throughout the United States or shall it be different. There is a natural inherent trouble between capital and labor. It is not safe to trust poor people when this trouble comes to a crisis. The very idea of society carries with it the idea of property. The safety of men depends upon the safety of property.

Master Austin H. Cole, negative—I cite the constitution of the United States. It says every man who is not a lunatic has the right to vote. It would make larger the danger of revolution. The ballot is the only weapon of the poor and uneducated. Take this from him and he has no way to protect imself. Our constitution says no taxation

After the speaking the committee on awards retired to make up their verdict. The committee consisted of Professor John nn, Major Robert A. Guinn and Hon.

read their reports, which were quite humorous and created much fun, especially for boys of the High school.

While the committee

While the committee were making their awards the president, George H. Boynton, Jr., rendered his decision. He made a short speech, taking into consideration all the speeches and concluded as follows:

speeches and concluded as follows:
"After taking all these points into careful consideration and laying aside all favoritism, as it would be conducive to education, and it would make our country than it now is. I render my more glorious than it now is, I render my decision in favor of the affirmative." The decision was greeted with cheers.

A motion was made to appeal from the president's decision. A vote was taken and the on of the president was sustained. The first prize for the best debater in the first grade was awarded to Frank Merrill; second prize for the best debater in the second grade was awarded to Emfle Breiten-bucher; third prize for the best debater in the whole school was awarded to Melson Lane; fourth prize for the best declaimer in the whole school was awarded to Milt Hirsch, who recited a poem by Mr. L. L. Enight, "Atlanta's Welcome to Chicago."

the system of its working.

A. A. Forman May Be Taken to Michigan for Theft.
The police have been advised that A. A.

Forman, who is now in jail for the theft of an electrical instrument at the exposi-tion grounds, left Iror Mountain, Mich., bringing with him to Atlanta several valuable electrical instruments said to have been stolen in that place. The instruments were recovered from Forman when he was arrested by detectives several days ago. They are valued at two or three hundred dollars.

Forman was bound over by Judge Foute several days ago. A valuable instrument was found in his possession, which was stolen from an exposition electrical exhibitor. It was thought the other instruments in his possession were stolen, and an investigation of the matter resulted in the receipt of a telegram yesterday from the Iron Mountain, Mich., Electric Light and Power Company stating that the instruents belonged to them and asking if they had been located.

It is now probable that Forman will be taken back to Michigan, the charge there being much more serious than here. The investigation was made by Chief of De-

TRIED FOR PERJURY.

A Side Issue Growing Out of the Creole Kitchen Trouble in Court.

Charles A. Clark was tried for perjury before Judge Foute yesterday. Clark is a former employe of W. T. Edmundson, manager of the Creole kitchen at the exposition. Last Wednesday when the trial of Mr. Edmundson came up in Judge Foute's court Clark appeared and made affidavit that one Mr. Wilson, who stood Mr. Edmundson's bond, was not solvent and ask-ed that the bond be strengthened. It was on this ground that Edmundson had Clark arrested for perjury.

Clark is manager of an exhibit at the exposition. He said he was perfectly honest in what he had done in the case. He had been led to think that Wilson was insolvent. Wilson, he said, was working at the Creole kitchen on a salary and he did not think he was capable of standing bond amounting to $4,000. The case was dismiss-

TWO SCALPER'S TICKETS

Cause the Arrest of a Scalper Becaus He Wouldn't Take Them Back.

M. Levison, a ticket scalper doing business on the Kimball house block, was tried before Judge Foute yesterday and bound over to the criminal coart. The charge against him was cheating and swindling. It was brought against him by two ladie who bought tickets from him which were not as represented.

Several days ago Levison sold the ladies two tickets to Washington city. Before leaving Atlanta, though, the ladies found that they could not travel on the tickets, as they were signature tickets. They went back to Levison's office and asked that their money be returned them. Levison re-fused, it is alleged, and the ladies had him arrested and employed Mr. Thomas R. R. Cobb to represent them in the case.

The Pains of Rheumatism,

The Pains of Rheumatism,
According to the best authorities, originate in a morbid condition of the blood. Lactic acid caused by the decomposition of the gelatines and albuminous tissues, circulates with the blood and attacks the fibrous tissues, particularly in the joints, and thus causes the local manifestations of the disease. The back and shoulders are the parts usually affected by rheumatism, and the joints of the knees, ankles, hips and wrists are also sometimes attacked. Thousands of people have found in Hood's Sarsaparilla a positive and permanent cure for rheumatism. It has had remarkable success in curing the most severe cases, The secret of its success lies in the fact that it attacks at once the cause of the disease by neutralizing the lactic acid and purifying the blood, as well as strengthening every function of the body.

GOT THE MAGIC LANTERN. Bailiff Gets the Advertising Outfit of

The stereopticon apparatus of H. W. Hubbard was levied on last night by a bailiff from Judge Landrum's court. Hubbard has been using his magic lantern do-ing advertising for everybody who em-ployed him for the last few months. He is located on the corner of Marietta and North Broad streets and does advertising by the magic lantern process, reflect ing a big advertisement of some firm on a canvas on the opposite side of the street.

The canvas and magic lantern were levied upon to satisfy a claim of Cook & Mc-Burney, restaurant men, with whom Hub-bard has been taking his meals for some time past.

GUARD DRILLS TONIGHT.

Their Application for Enlistment Yet To Be Acted On.

To Be Acted On.

The Gate City Guard will hold their regular weekly meeting and drill tonight.

It was thought that election of officers would take place, but the enlistment application, which is in the governor's hands, has not been acted on as yet, as the press of legislative affairs has kept him very busy for some time. Captain Hollis said he did not think the election would take place till some time in January.

TRUNK THIEVES' WORK

TWO NEGROES CAPTURED FOR STEALING TRUNKS.

Three Trunks Stolen and Broken to Pieces After Being Rifled-Alleged Pickpockets Caught.

After over a month's hard work the detectives have succeeded in running down a negro drayman who it seems has been ap-propriating for his own use all the trunks he could get hold of at the union depot. Sometime ago complaint was made to the police that a negro drayman had stolen a trunk entrusted with him to be delivered at a house on Washington street. The trunk belonged to a young lady who gave the check to the negro near the depot. Nothing was ever heard of the missing trunk until a few remnants of it we in a house in the western part of the city

Two other trunks have been stolen in the last few weeks, all taken from the union depot, secured from the Atlanta Baggage Company in some unexplained man The property could never be found until Thursday and only part of it then. The negroes under arrest are Will Jackson and Ike Mahoney. Jackson was formerly an employee of the baggage company and by that fact was able to understand how to steal the trunks. Detectives Looney, Me-haffey, Conn and Hewitt worked the case.

SENATOR SANFORD REPLIES.

He Has Something To Say About

Judge Turner's Card.

Editor Constitution—I. shall notice only two of Judge Turner's criticisms upon the report made by the penitentiary committee, of which I had the honor'of being chairman. He states that the following part of a special report was made as a general report:

"We find all of the convects in all of the places properly cared for as the law provides, well fed, well clothed and are given good medical attention when needed."

The above special report related only to Canps Smith, Maxwell and Hendrix, in Chatham county. This, it seems to me, Judge Turner could have seen, for they, and none others, are mentioned in the same paragraph with the special report of the sub-committee. He makes it appear that it relates to all the camps in the state, when such was not so. I have in my possession all the special reports by sub-committees with their names signed in person.

Judge Turner says "only two members person. Judge Turner says "only two members of the senate committee came into my department during the legislative session, and one of these was the chairman, who came for a bill which I had drawn for and one of these was the chairman, who came for a bill which I had drawn for him, putting misdemeanor convicts under the management of this department, which department he reports disgraceful."

The facts in regard to the above visit to Judge Turner's office are simply these: Governor Atkinson had sent to the senate and house of representatives a special message in regard to county or misdemeanor convicts, and this message was referred to the penitentiary committee. I felt it my duty to consult the governor in regard to the evils complained of and hear any suggestions which he wished to make to remedy the evils. This I did, and he requested me to see Judge Turner and get a bill which met his approval. This bill was brought before the penitentlary committee, discussed, amended, and was passed by the senate, but rejected by the house of representatives. As to Judge Turner's denial of statements made by the different sub-committees, they will, and can, take care of themselves.

It was impossible for me to visit all the different camps in person, but a visit to two or three convinced me that abuses existed that ought not to be tolerated by the people of the state.

B. W. SANFORD,

Malaria literally means bad air. Those who are exposed to malarial or other pol-sons should keep the blood pure by taking Hood's Sarsaparilla. Pure blood is a fee to disease.

TO DEVELOP TRADE.

MR. WOODSON CALLS A MEETING FOR MONDAY AT NOON.

It Is for the Development of Trade Between Our Country and South America.

Mr. Stewart F. Woodson, president of the chamber of commerce, has sent out the following letter, calling for a meeting of all wholesale grocers and others interested in the closer relations between this country and the Central and South American states, which is to be held in the Chamber of Commerce on December 16th, at 12 o'clock:

"Sir—The importance of the meeting called for Monday, the 16th instant, at noon, cannot be overestimated and should be lagely attended. The advantages to the United States, and to the southern states in particular, which will result from a closer commercial connection with Costa Rica, Mexico and the Central and South American states are great, but are not fully appreciated by our people.

"You are cordially requested to be present at the meeting as I am sure you will feel more than repaid for the time expended by the information which you will derive. Respectfully yours,

"STEWART F. WOODSON,
"President of the Chamber of Commerce.
"Atlanta, Ga., December 12, 1895."

In connection with the above letter an-

In connection with the above letter another of a similar nature has been sent out by the commissioners of Costa Rica to the Atlanta exposition, and which is as fol-

Atlanta exposition, and which is as follows:

"Sir—The undersigned commissioners of Costa Rica, desirous of adding their efforts to those of the Cotton States and International exposition, for the purpose of carrying out the aim that its directors and promoters had in view, viz.: to strengthen the now existing relations between this nation and the southern republics, and develop new and desirable fields for commercial activity, earnestly request the honor of your presence at a meeting to be had at the Chamber of Commerce on Monday, December 16th, at the hour of noon.

"There we shall endeavor to explain the manner of overcoming the difficulties which have prevented the extension of trade between this northern republic and those southern republics, and will propose, a plan, that if it should merit the approval of the business men of Atlanta and the support of the other states of this union, will be abundant in good results for the people of these United States.

"We greatly desire to hear the opinions of those persons who might be interested, as we are, in making the city of Atlanta the initiator of a movement that might become popular throughout the country.

"Your attention is called to the accompanying invitation of the president of the chamber of commerce, in which he so kindly recommends the attendance to the aforesaid meeting. Very respectfully yours, "TEODORO H. MANGEL, "Commissioners of Costa Rica.

UNIQUE SERVICE.

Rev. A. A. Hoyt, of Boston, and Mandolin Club, of Ohio.

The services at the Young Men's Christian Association hall will be of unusual and varied interest on Sunday afternoon.

Commencing at 3:39 and continuing for about half an hour will be a most delightful programme of music, prominent in which will be the fanous Mandolin Club, of Columbias O. which will be the fanous Mandolin Club, of Columbus, O., which will render some of its best selections. The young men's crchestra will also furnish music. Rev. A. A. Hoyt, of Boston, will be the speaker, and has chosen "Heroism" as his subject. Rev. Mr. Hoyt is editor of The Christian Worker, and is a very attractive speaker. All young men are invited to attend.

Some people are skeptical to such a degree that they are afraid to trust to their own selses, and they obstinately refuse to listen to the logic of facts. They have seen in thousands of cases that patients who under regular medical treatment did not get better were restored to health as by magic, after using Dr. Radway's celebrated remedies; yet such skeptics will ascribe the cure rather to some unknown cause than to the remedy, though it invariably produces the same effect. A severe cold might produce inflammation of the lungs, bowels, eyes, etc., rheumatism, diarrhoea, congestions, erysipelas, cholera morbus, fever, dysentery, neuralgia, toothache, diphtheria, croup, ophthalmia, paisy, swelling of the glands and innumerable other diseases. It is not at all surprising that one remedy should remove the one cause of all these different diseases and thereby cure them. But, whether surprising or not, Dr. Radway has proven it to be an indisputable fact. His Ready Relief is just the remedy for the diseases above enumerated and many others, and it effects a cure in an incredibly short time. A large class of diseases arising from a disordered state of the digestive organs is eally and unfailingly cured by Dr. Radway's Regulating Pills. These pills, being vegetable, are safe and harmless, and yet act more powerfully than preparations of mercury, which shatter the whole system. All of Dr. Radway's celebrated remedies are for sale at all druggists and dealers in medicines and the trade is supplied by Dr. Radway's C., 55 Elm street, New York. Some people are skeptical to such a deof all diseases arise from deranged Kid-neys and Liver, and it strikes at once at the root of the difficulty. The elements of which it is composed act directly upon these great organs, both as a food and a restorer, and, by placing them in a healthy condition, drive disease and pain from the system.

For the innumerable troubles caused by unhealthy Kidneys, Liver and Urinary Organs; for the distressing Disorders of omen; for all Nervous Affections, and physical derangements generally, this great remedy has no equal.
